Social media now toolkit of terror networks: EAM

Jaishankar flags new tech's flipside, calls for zero tolerance on terror

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

INTERNET and social media platforms have turned into potent instruments in the "toolkit" of terror groups, which are misusing new technologies such as encrypted messaging and cryptocurrencies to further their cause, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar warned on Saturday. Addressing a special meeting of the UN Security Council's Counter Terrorism Committee, he said while recent technological innovations have positively transformed the way the world functions, there is a flip side to it.

"In recent years, terrorist groups, their ideological fellow-travellers, particularly in open and liberal societies and 'lone wolf' attackers have significantly enhanced their capabilities by gaining access to these technologies," he said, adding that these forces use technology and money, and the ethos of open societies to attack freedom, tolerance and progress.

Reaffirming India's commitment to combat terrorism, Jaishankar also announced a voluntary contribution of $500,000 to the UN Trust Fund for Counter-Terrorism this year to aid capacity building support to member states in combating terrorism.

Representatives from all 15 member nations of the UN Security Council attended the second day's meeting held in Delhi on Saturday. The first day's events were held in Mumbai on Friday.

The meeting also adopted the "Delhi Declaration" listing the Council's priorities in combating the challenge of terrorism and terror-financing. It called on member countries to ensure "zero tolerance" towards terrorist activities.

"Terrorism should not be associated with any religion, nationality, civilisation or ethnic group. It was noted with concern the increased use of internet, social media platforms for terrorist purposes," the declaration read.

Speaking at the event, the UK's foreign secretary James Cleverly urged the members to work together to fight online terrorism – including recruitment campaigns and live streaming of attacks.

'NEW IT RULES TO PROTECT ONLINE USERS'

IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw on Saturday said the intent of the new IT rules notified on Friday is to protect online users. Under the new rules, the Centre proposed to set up appellate panels to settle grievances that users may have against decisions of social media platforms such as Twitter and Facebook on hosting contentious content. Meanwhile, junior IT minister Rajeev Chandrsekhar said social media companies must act "as fast as possible" after a content is flagged, though they have 72 hours to remove objectionable content

Gujarat govt forms panel to implement Uniform Civil Code

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

ON the lines of most BJP-ruled governments, the Gujarat government on Saturday formed a committee for the implementation of the Uniform Civil Code.

As the schedule for the state elections is likely next week, the Bhupendra Patel-led cabinet met perhaps for the last time to pave the way for the contentious measure. Patel said a high-level committee under chairmanship of a retired Supreme Court/HC judge will examine the need for the UCC in the state.

"There are two types of laws in the country: criminal and civil. Criminal laws are the same for every citizen whereas civil laws are different. In order to remove this discrepancy, the state government has decided to implement the Uniform Civil Code," said Minister of State for Home Harsh Sanghvi.

Union Animal Husbandry Minister Purshottam Rupala said, "There are different laws as per religion, caste, creed, and cultural beliefs in matters such as marriage, inheritance, succession, divorce, inheritance, and guardianship. The UCC will give equal rights to all."

Reacting to the decision, state Congress chief Jagdish Thakor said the BJP is trying to divert attention from core issues like inflation and unemployment.

In recent months, BJP-ruled Uttarakhand and Himachal have formed panels to implement UCC. Goa is the only state in India that has such a code.

PG seat matrix for med courses: HC quashes plea

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has declined to entertain a plea against the seat matrix issued for admission to medical courses in minority medical colleges for the academic year 2022-23. The seat matrix was based on a mutual agreement between the Association of Minority Professional Colleges in Karnataka and the state government.

"The association of which the petitioners are members entered into an agreement with the state government with eyes wide open. It is pertinent to note that the majority of the members of the association have not raised any grievance, either against seat matrix or against fixation of fee. Any alteration in the seat matrix at the instance of the petitioners shall affect the other members of the associations who are not present before the court", the HC said.

A division bench of Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty said that it is evident that the petitioners have got more seats in NRI and management quotas in previous years. Merely because they have got less seats this year, the petitioners cannot be permitted to make a complaint in this regard in the absence of violation of any statutory right, the court observed.

State aims to up ethanol blend in petrol from 10% to 85%

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

OFFICIALS from Karnataka State Bioenergy Development Board (KSBDB) are working with Oil Manufacturing Companies (OMCs) to increase the percentage of ethanol in petrol to ensure that large quantities of ethanol generated in the state is fully utilised, while aiming to address vehicular pollution and phase out dependence on fossil fuels.

At present 10 per cent ethanol is blended in every litre of petrol, but officials are working to beat the target set by the Central government and blend up to 85 per cent ethanol.

"At present a private company from Karnataka is undertaking trials on 85 per cent ethanol blend as is being done in buses in Nagpur (Maharashtra). The same can be done in Karnataka too. This is the best solution at hand to address the issue of vehicular emission. Gradually increasing the blending quantity will not affect engines and does not require special calibrations," explained Dr G N Dayananda, Manager, KSBDB.

As per Central government directions, ethanol blend in vehicles should increase to 25 per cent by 2025, but Karnataka government is in talks with OMCs to set a higher target.

According to KSBDB data, 28 sugar factories in the state which were producing 11 lakh kilo litres of ethanol per day, have now increased by 20 per cent in six months. With new distillation technologies, juices from sugarcane is directly being used for ethanol production. Due to limited demand in Karnataka, ethanol is also supplied to Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh. Ethanol is being sold at Rs 48-64 a litre, depending upon the quality, whereas aviation fuel is sold at Rs 150 a litre. P4

LAST OF THE GREATS

Jerry Lee Lewis, rock 'n' roll icon, dies at 87

LOS ANGELES: Jerry Lee Lewis, the untamable rock n' roll pioneer whose outrageous talent, energy and ego collided on such definitive records as 'Great Balls of Fire' and 'Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On' and sustained a career otherwise upended by personal scandal, died Friday morning aged 87. The last survivor of a generation of groundbreaking performers that included Elvis Presley, Chuck Berry and Little Richard, Lewis died at his Mississippi home.

Of all the rock rebels to emerge in the 1950s, few captured the new genre's attraction and danger as unforgettably as the Louisiana-born piano player who called himself "The Killer".

Lewis was all about lust and gratification, with his leering tenor and demanding asides, violent tempos and brash glissandi, cocky sneer and crazy blond hair. "There was Rockabilly. There was Elvis. But there was no pure rock 'n 'roll before Jerry Lee Lewis kicked in the door," a Lewis admirer once observed. That admirer was Jerry Lee Lewis.

But in his private life, he raged in ways that might have ended his career today and nearly did back then. P12

ATTIRE OF A WARRIOR CULTURE

Traditional clothes, jewels and accessories set the Kodavas apart

PRAJNA GR @ Madikeri

RITUALS and culture narrate the history and ancestral beliefs of a community. Traditional attire binds a community and signifies their identity, while also promoting its culture. One such is the Kodava community, nestled in the picturesque district of Kodagu, and boasts of a unique culture and even more unique attire.

Anyone who has attended a Kodava wedding will be familiar with the traditional dress worn by Kodava men. A half-sleeved knee-length black wraparound coat, a silk sash girding the waist and headgear make up the attire, known as 'Kuppya Chele'.

"In the Kodava language, 'Kuip' translates to heat, and 'ya' means absent. In simple words, the attire that protects one from heat is the 'Kuppya'," analysed Bacharaniyanda Appanna, a Kodava historian. To hold the 'Kuppya' in place, a cloth belt called the 'chele' is used. The 'Kuppya Chele' is accessorised with traditional weapons.

Kodavas are a native Dravidian race that settled amid the thick forests of the 'Malayadri Sahyadri' range and speak the original Dravidian language of Kodava. Ancestors wore 'Kuppya' made of indigenous plant fibre called 'Bolakka Balli'.

"When clothes started coming in from Kerala through the barter system, the 'Kuppya' or knee-length coat was stitched in white cloth. However, when the British came to Kodagu in 1834, the priests of the Church had issues with this attire. Since the white 'kuppya' resembled the habit of Christian priests, the British passed an order to change the colour of the Kodava attire," explained Apanna.

It is said that the elders voiced their resentment against the British for meddling with their culture. However, a mutual understanding was arrived at. "During this rift, serge fabric came to India from England. Black serge was imported in large quantities, and became more convenient as it rarely appeared dirty. The 'kuppya' was soon stitched in black serge, but to ensure the survival of ancestral culture, white 'kuppya' is mandated on special occasions. The bridegroom, temple head or priest, village head or 'thakka mukyasta' are mandated to wear white 'kuppya'. Even a dead body is dressed in white 'kuppya'," explained Appanna.

The 'chele' also witnessed a touch of modernisation, and the 25-ft long strong multipurpose cloth has been replaced with fancy brightly-coloured silk cloth. "During war times, the 'chele' was used to tie enemies and for other purposes," said Appanna.

The comfort sari

The women of the community also wear unique attire, and a mythological story is intertwined around it. The Kodava women wear a sari that is pleated at the back and the 'pallu' or loose end is wrapped around the front. "According to mythology, seer Agasthya and Cauvery had a rift, and Cauvery left Talacauvery discreetly. She showed up after ten days at Bhagamandala, and then left towards Balamuri, where villagers stopped her and requested her to stay. However, she flowed with great force, which caused the saris worn by the women to turn backwards. She was then calmed and promised to show herself every year during the Cauvery Sankramana celebrations," narrated Appanna.

This sari also has scientific symbolism. Since Kodava women participated in agricultural activities, the back-pleat saris were more comfortable, and women could even climb trees easily. These saris hold great significance for the community and are paired with headgear called the 'vasthra'. "Both Kodava men and women wear the head cloth. Our ancestors believed that the sun's rays should never fall behind the neck and they covered it with 'vasthra'. However, the headgear has been modernised to suit current trends and has intricate artwork, especially those worn by women," he explained.

Traditional jewels

The traditional knife called the 'peecha katthi', which was used in self-defence during ancestral times, forms part of the men's attire and symbolises the tribal and warrior culture of the community. The 'peecha kathi' or dagger, and 'odi kathi' or traditional sword, are accessories for men, while a variety of traditional jewels add a touch of cultural flavour to the women's saris.

"'Peecha kathi' was fixed to the attire using the 'chele'. Earlier, these daggers had handles of wood. Now, they are carved in silver and gold and shine brightly on the traditional attire," Appanna said.

The women have seven types of jewels. "At Talacauvery, the seven seers or 'sapta rishis' meditated. One could also find seven ponds at the centre, which are now covered. As a sign of blessings from the seers, the Kodava tradition mentions seven types of adornments from head to toe. However, only a few jewels have stood the test of time," he explained.

Among the jewels, 'Pathak' holds great significance for married women. "When a girl goes to her husband's house, her parents pack ten essential items – mostly traditional brass items – to be sent with her. These items are given to help her lead an independent life in her husband's house, and must not be brought back to the girl's house unless the couple is separated. To protect these items, a jewel consisting of 'Naga' (snake) god's incarnation is tied by the mother of the bride during the wedding ceremony, called the 'Pathak'," explained Appanna. This jewel holds symbolic significance and is similar to a 'mangal sutra', while other traditional jewels include the 'joe maale' and 'kokke thaati'.

Primarily nature worshippers, the culture, traditions and rituals of Kodavas are unique and tribal in nature. While the size of the community has shrunk in the past, steps are now in place to revive the community's rich culture.

Shepherds celebrate Deepavali near Naregal town in Gadag district | EXPRESS

BLEETIFUL DIWALI

Nomadic shepherds worship their flock during Deepavali, while boiling milk shows them the direction to the next area

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

As we celebrate Deepavali by bursting crackers, distributing sweets and embarking on holidays, we tend to forget that there are communities which are siloed from such forms of enjoyment. Their celebrations may seem idiosyncratic, stemming from a firm belief system that is bequeathed to them by previous generations.

These nomadic shepherds, even as others are picking crackers, are busy hunting for places for their flock of sheep to graze. It does not matter whether it is raining or it is painfully hot, but they keep moving with their family and sheep.

Amidst this trekking and leading the hard life, they do not forget to celebrate Deepavali in their own unique way. We caught up with a group of shepherds near Naregal town in Gadag district.

They had been forced to camp on the outskirts as it was raining incessantly. They said that they celebrate the festival for five days and most years, far away from their hometowns.

On the Padya morning, they worship their flock and boil milk, which shows them the direction to find the next grazing ground. On the rest of the days, they perform Lakshmi puja and other rituals.

They place a lamp in front of the flock, put kumkum and turmeric on them, and offer prayers as others do to deities, for prosperity. The dung is collected and spread on the floor, while a portion of it is kept in a pot. The place where the pot is kept is decorated with sugarcane sticks and marigolds, while a saree goes into the pot. Weapons like axes, knives and others are arranged in front of the pot and worshipped. Shepherds prepare sweet dishes, rice, sambar and papads, and offer them to their flock first. Only later do they have their meal.

They purchase a new clay pot, into which they put vermicelli, tur dal, and milk, and boil the mixture. That is when they know which direction to lead their flock next.

Women in the group sell sheep milk in nearby villages, fetch water and cook food. Some women also stitch dresses and sell them.

Kalakappa Rathode, who celebrated Deepavali with his family near Naregal, said, "We came from Gajendragad. Incessant rain forced us to halt. This time, the boiling milk showed us the way towards the south and we will go in that direction. We are lucky that during our journey, we will find Kappatagudda, and will reach there in two days. We are a group of 12 people with a flock of 70 sheep."

Members of another group from Rajur village of Gajendragad said, "We celebrated Deepavali on the outskirts of Nagendragad near Bagalkot district. We are 19 of us and we had to around hillocks and forests in search of a place for our flock to graze. We boiled the milk near Nagendragad and it showed us the way towards Ballari. Incessant rain has made moving around with a flock of 114 sheep difficult."

Lalavva, a woman from Gajendragad, said, "We sell sheep milk to those who want it. Some of us are sending our children to school as we want our children to get good jobs. They should not be deprived of education because of our migration."

Worshipping Pandavas

Nomadic shepherds prepare Pandavas using cow dung. They offer marigolds and worship God for health and prosperity. They call their rituals that coincide with Deepavali as Hatti Puja.

Deepotsava

The shepherds clean up their hatti, or a place for the flock to rest, and light numerous lamps every morning and evening on all five days of Diwali. Every evening, they gather to celebrate deepotsava in their hatti. This year, after the solar eclipse, the shepherds visited nearby temples and worshipped on Amavasya day. After coming back, they worshipped their presiding deity.

Forum of ex-VCs drafts report on NEP failures

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Forum of Former Vice-Chancellors of Karnataka (FVCK) has released a report on the poor implementation of the National Education Policy (NEP) in the state. Speaking to reporters on Saturday, FVCK president Dr K A Rangappa, said the forum undertook a survey after it received many complaints from students and faculty members who alleged poor implementation of NEP in the state. "We formed a 5-member committee, which conducted workshops in 12 colleges coming under Mysuru University. Based on our findings, we have compiled a report to highlight the issues that are coming in the way of proper implementation of the policy," he said.

The report is based on the grievances faced by the first batch of NEP students following the end of the academic year. The forum reported multiple instances of report cards being issued till as late as December despite the academic year ending in April. This is in addition to the failure of the multiple exit and entry provision, as students have still not got their diploma certificates as promised under the NEP.

"The government is claiming that it has conducted training programmes and ensured that all provisions under the NEP have been provided. However, the implementation is simply not there. Even now, a majority of faculty members of these colleges have not been given proper training. The purpose of the report is to flag these issues to the government," said Dr N S Ramegowda, FVCK executive committee member, who headed the committee.

Dr N S Ramegowda, FVCK executive committee member

Meanwhile, as far as higher education in the state is concerned, FVCK pointed out several issues, including the establishment of seven new universities in different districts of the state. "The initiative is a commendable one and we certainly encourage it, but this must be done after the government has ensured good infrastructure and facilities in already existing colleges and universities," said Dr Rangappa.

Crowds had started to swell inside the studio from Friday night itself.

Fans brought garlands made of puffed rice to offer to the actor. Forty-six portraits of the actor made by fans on watermelons were put on display, over 30 large cutouts of Puneeth were put up along the road and even inside the studio, and one fan made a bust of Puneeth from butter.

Teary-eyed family members of Appu, led by his wife Ashwini Puneeth Rajkumar, served food to the fans at the studio. Former BJP MLA KS Kirankumar tries to pacify the villagers at Bellara Megala Gollarahatti hamlet on Saturday | EXPRESS

AMID rumours of children kidnappers on the prowl which the police have rubbished, an incident of two children claiming to have braved a kidnap attempt by a gang occurred at a remote Bellara Megala Gollarahatti hamlet near Huliyar in Chikkanayakanahalli on Saturday.

According to one of the students, Lohith – who studies in Class 4, he and another girl student managed to escape from the gang that came in a car. The boy has sustained bruises, which he claimed were sustained when he fell into a mesquite bush. As the incident looked suspicious, SP Rahulkumar Shahapurwad visited the spot to get first-hand information. "Only after an investigation, will we ascertain whether it was a kidnap attempt," he said.

The gang tried to snatch the girl, also studying in Class 4, but Lohith pulled her by the leg and saved her, said other children who were eyewitnesses. Later, the girl helped Lohith escape, but he fell into the bush, they said. The gang sped away after the children started screaming, it is said.

The children said the car was grey coloured and there were three children inside the car. But the police suspect their account. "There were no such incidents reported in the region recently," said an officer.

"We dialled the helpline number 112 immediately after the incident around 11.30 am, but the police arrived only at 2 pm. If they had responded quickly, the gang which went towards Chikkanayakanahalli could have been nabbed," alleged Lakkenahalli Manjunath, a social activist. The panic-stricken parents, who trust their children, said they are not ready to send their wards to school till the case is cracked. Former BJP MLA K S Kirankumar visited the spot and pacified the villagers.

Lalbagh top officials not letting us in: Nurserymen

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AFTER the Karnataka High Court intervened in a matter related to the Nurseryman Cooperative Society on Lalbagh premises, society board members allege that top officials, including Lalbagh Director Nagendra Prasad and Joint Director HM Jagadeesh, are preventing them from entering the one acre and 64 cent area on the West Gate side. This has put the plants in danger, they added.

Ravi, one of the board members, told The New Sunday Express, "Since yesterday (Friday), we have been denied entry. Lives of around 350 society members are at stake. They are not being allowed to take care of the plants. If the plants die, around Rs 2 crore will be wasted and we will be at a loss."

But the Lalbagh authorities denied the allegations and said the matter is in court. The society members are trying it to bring Lalbagh a bad name, they added.

"The claims of members that they are not allowed to water the plants are false. They have been let in to take care of the nursery," said Nagendra Prasad.

"Only the main gate is closed. A small gate is kept open and seven to eight members are allowed to water the plants whenever they want from morning till evening," Jagadeesh said.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

'INFRA CHALLENGES WON'T IMPACT BTS 2022'

UMA KANNAN

THE llargest technology summit – Bengaluru Tech Summit – is entering its silver jubilee edition this year. BTS has grown over the years, and this time, with the theme 'Tech4NexGen', the summit (November 16-18) will focus on technology and innovation for the next generation. In an interview with The New Sunday Express, IT&BT Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan says BTS 2022 will witness participation from over 50 countries and 2,000 start-ups. According to him, the state government has taken various steps to address infrastructure challenges, and they will not have any impact on the summit.

The BTS-2022 will be held within two weeks after the Global Investors Meet (GIM). What kind of a response are you expecting from startups and delegates?

We expect a tremendous response for BTS this year. The summit will be a physical event after two years, and it will witness participation from over 50 countries, 350 domain experts, 75 sessions, and 5,000 delegates. Over 2,000 start-ups will take part. We will have several delegations led by ministers from our GIA (Global Innovation Alliance) partner countries, including Dubai, Finland, the Netherlands and Australia. Ambassadors from several of our GIA partner countries, including Australia, Finland, the UK and Denmark, among others have also confirmed participation.

There is an interesting session on the Bengaluru Next Unicorns Conclave. Will this encourage more startups to set up base in the city compared to Delhi-NCR?

We had a very successful Unicorn Conclave during BTS 2021, with the participation of over 30 unicorns in Karnataka. This year, with more Karnataka homegrown startups achieving the unicorn status, we plan to make this conclave even bigger and more successful. Bengaluru has a matured startup ecosystem, and it is home to some of the largest startups in the country. Around 40% of the unicorns in the country are based out of Bengaluru. Karnataka was the first state in the country to launch the Karnataka Startup Policy 2015-2020, and has subsequently launched various startup initiatives for the development of the startup ecosystem. Initiatives such as Elevate 100, Grand Challenges Karnataka and Elevate WomEN will continue to encourage more startups to set up base in the city.

What are the emerging technologies that will be showcased in this year's BTS?

Topics such as Hybrid Cloud, Edge Computing, Future of Fintech, Mobility, among others will be covered. In biotechnology, there will be interesting dialogues on Genomics revolution 2.0, Gene editing and Smart Supply Chains in Biopharma. We will have various countries speaking about niche technologies that they are specialising in and focusing on. For instance, Finland will conduct a session on 5G. Denmark, being a leading country for clean technology, will speak about Tech for Sustainability. Space technology and Aerospace R&D will also be covered. Various business leaders will participate in the CEO conclave and there will be an open-house on challenges faced by the industry and paving the roadmap for Karnataka across sectors for the next decade. We will also celebrate 25 glorious years of the Summit by felicitating Top 25 global leaders and Top 25 global capability centres in the state. The Metaverse experience zone and Lab2Market will be some of the highlights.

Topics such as Hybrid Cloud, Edge Computing, Future of Fintech, Mobility, among others will be covered

— Dr Ashwath Narayan, IT&BT Minister

As part of Beyond Bengaluru, Hubballi and Mysuru hosted the precursor to BTS 2022. What was the feedback?

Techceleration 2022, a two-day event was held in Hubballi. The event showcased Hubballi-Dharwad- Belagavi cluster's growing importance as a contributor to Karnataka's digital economy. Over 700 people participated in various sessions and sub-events. Mentoring system for startups and investment has also been increasing. The Big Tech Show 2022 was held in Mysuru to showcase the progress achieved by the technology industry in Mysuru.

Open Network for Digital Commerce (ONDC) went live with a beta launch in Bengaluru last month. How will this government-owned network help users, and will there be any session on this?

Consumers in Bengaluru can now shop from multiple categories of products and services from a single buyer application of their choice. Consumers can place their orders in two domains – groceries and restaurants – through any buyer apps participating on the ONDC network. ONDC's beta testing is live across 16 pin codes in Bengaluru. We currently do not have a session in BTS 2022 on this topic.

Infrastructure is still a big challenge as the image of the city took a hit recently due to heavy rains. Will that have any impact on BTS-2022?

There won't be any impact on BTS-2022. We have received record rainfall in our city, and this kind of rainfall will definitely throw up a lot of challenges. The state government has taken progressive steps and infrastructure challenges will be addressed with robust short-term, medium-term and long-term plans. There are challenges. We are willing to address them effectively. Some people are trying to do these campaigns with vested interest and rain is the target. They can't compete in a better way and are indulging in these campaigns.

'Govt confident of ₹5Lcr investments in GIM'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE state government is confident of signing MoUs worth Rs 5 lakh crore during the Global Investors Meet (GIM) to be held in Bengaluru from November 2 to 4, said Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani on Saturday. "The investment will have a potential to generate employment opportunities for around five lakh people. We are confident of reaching the target and doing even better," he told TNSE.

Minister Murugesh Nirani at the TNIE office | VINOD KUMAR T

The government is also hopeful of a much better conversion ratio -- realisation of investment proposals -- of over 75 per cent as compared to just 27 per cent after the last edition of GIM. Unlike earlier, the MoUs are not signed directly during the summit, but after detailed discussions about investment proposals and after giving required clearances. The State-Level Single Window Clearance Committee headed by the industries minister and the high-level committee headed by the CM have already cleared ₹3.4 lakh crore investment proposals. Government has set a target of around ₹2 lakh crore in green hydro energy. The government is acquiring around 50,000 acres--20,000 acres in Bengaluru Urban and Rural and the rest in districts. The land will be acquired with the farmers' consent and a detailed audit will be done of unused land out of 1.65 lakh acres acquired from farmers for development of 188 industrial areas.

Plans on to make ethanol from waste, says Nirani

Large and Medium Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani told TNSE that, in Karnataka, there is a 25% excess sugar production which is being used in ethanol production. The government is in talks with companies to use 100% ethanol and gradually phase out dependence on fossil fuels. The government has set a target of next 10 years to achieve this. Government is also encouraging industries to set up units for hybrid engine manufacturing in the state.

Nirani said it has been proved that ethanol increases engine efficiency and is now helping farmers. The government is also working on second generation ethanol production (from municipal solid waste). Simultaneously, bio-diesel is also being focused on. Work is in progress on increasing procurement of waste, used edible cooking oil from hotels and restaurants, which can be used in generation of bio-diesel. Researchers and units are being pushed to increase generation of oils from non-edible oil seeds which can be blended with diesel. OMCs have also shown interest in increasing the blend in petrol and diesel. Sources in Bharat Petroleum said at present there is seven per cent bio-diesel and is available at very few fuel stations. If supply is increased, the blend would also increase, they said.

DKS, Siddu blame KSE for communal tension

ENS @ Shivamogga

LAUNCHING a two-pronged attack on former deputy chief minister KS Eshwarappa, Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah and KPCC president DK Shivakumar on Saturday alleged that the MLA has fomented communal tension in Shivamogga.

No big business is ready to invest in the district due to the communally charged atmosphere, Shivakumar said, while Siddaramaiah said, "When Bajrang Dal worker Harsha was murdered, Eshwarappa, being a minister, violated the prohibitory orders and led the funeral procession. Can this act be justified," he asked.

With the Global Investors' Meet to be held soon, Shivakumar said, "I dare Eshwarappa and former CM BS Yediyurappa to get an investment of Rs 5,000 crore for the district and create jobs. Due to the communal environment created by Eshwarappa, the district's reputation has been tainted."

Shivakumar said the atmosphere in the state is similar to when SM Krishna was the chief minister and several big leaders were defeated in the election.

To address issues of land rights of forest dwellers, rehabilitation of Sharavathi project evacuees, and difficulties of arecanut growers of Malnad and coastal regions, a committee comprising party leader Ramesh Hegde will be formed, which will submit its report in a month, he said.

Reacting to an audio clip which has gone viral where Minister MTB Nagaraj is allegedly speaking about corruption in the police department for transfers, Shivakumar said the BJP exists because of graft and Operation Lotus. "The Telangana Operation Lotus is coming to light. I appeal to the Chief Justice of India to order an investigation into the case," he said.

Kateel confident of majority, calls for Cong-mukt booths

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel on Saturday called for Congress-mukt booths to defeat the Grand Old Party in the general elections. BJP workers should rise above caste and shoulder their responsibilities to make sure that even an ordinary worker wins elections, he added. Addressing booth-level presidents in the city, he said BJP should dominate all booths and win 150 seats in the 2023 state Assembly elections to shut out both Congress and JDS.

Lauding PM Narendra Modi as the most remarkable leader the nation has seen in the last 75 years, he said Modi will remain in power for the next 10 years.

Warning CLP leader Siddaramaiah against attacks on Hindus, he said the former CM is against the ban on PFI and when he was in power, did not give compensation to the families of 24 Hindu activists who were killed. He criticised Siddaramaiah for taking out the padayatra with SDPI men and said Hindus have lost hope of protection from the Congress. He maintained that the Bharat Jodo Yatra led by Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and JDS' Pancharatna Yatra will not make any impact. He said Siddaramaiah is searching for a constituency to contest in 2023 as people have lost faith in him after he conspired to defeat Mallikarjun Kharge and G Parameshwara.

BJP trying hard to get Lingayats back to fold

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

ELECTIONS are just six months away and BJP is trying to 'reconsolidate' its mighty Lingayat support base. This is after complaints that the chasm between Lingayats BJP is growing after BS Yediyurappa resigned as chief minister. Though another Lingayat, Basavaraj Bommai, replaced him, the community feels it is being sidelined in the decision-making process. The big question is: How to counter this challenge?

Veerashaiva Mahasabha Secretary Renuka Prasanna said, "There has been a sentiment that the real power rests with the Sangh Parivar. The community's 40% will vote for BJP whatever happens. But what about the remaining 60 per cent? This issue cannot be addressed by erecting statues."

Political analyst B S Murthy said, "Lingayats are bitter as they perceive less power in their hands. There is also a discussion that the Sangh Parivar, not Bommai, runs the administration. They say this never happened under Yediyurappa, who kept Sangh elements at a distance. This perception is because Bommai's administration has been marred by communal violence, misgovernance and the general optics of a weak and indecisive CM. Bommai's inability to handle Panchamasali agitation adds to that perception. This could have been managed better if BY Vijayendra was taken into the cabinet. Vijayendra would have been seen as CM in waiting. BJP today believes in a different kind of optics, that of engaging the community with statues and naming ceremonies than giving power to community leaders."

But BJP general secretary Ravi Kumar said, "Yediyurappa has been elevated to the member of Parliamentary Board. Also, Kalyana-Karnataka, a largely Lingayat belt, has been given a special package of ₹5,000 crore. Veerashaiva Development Board has set aside funds for the development of the community. The Anubhava Mantapa is being set up at Rs 500 crore."

Gita 'misinterpreted', Bajrang Dal activists ask DC to take action

Tumakuru: Bajrang Dal activists on Saturday approached Deputy Commissioner YS Patil demanding action against miscreants for selling a book 'Giteye ninna jnana amrita', an alleged misinterpretation of Bhagavad Gita. The book's jacket has a picture of Lord Krishna on a chariot. "The book belittled Lord Krishna and also the Hindu gods Brahma, Vishnu and Maheshwara. It is an alleged attempt to convert Hindus," alleged Bajrang Dal convener Manju Bhargav in a memorandum. He demanded that a series of books misinterpreting Gita including ' Geeteya Saara', summary of Gita, should be banned from circulation. The miscreants had been selling them at the Hindu temples for Rs 10, he said. As no FIR has been filed in any of the police stations despite a complaint being lodged, the members of Bajrang Dal have approached the DC. Town police have clarified that a Non Cognisable Report (NCR) has been filed. "As the government has not banned the book, an FIR cannot be filed," said an officer. ENS

Chairman of KCDC J Kennedy Shanthkumar addresses media persons in Udupi on Saturday | EXPRESS

Reviving hope for students from the minority communities, J Kennedy Shanthkumar, chairman, Karnataka Christian Development Council (KCDC), said on Saturday that the Overseas Scholarship Scheme will resume soon, which had taken a back seat during the pandemic.

He said that CM Basavaraj Bommai has assured him the scheme will continue, and redesigned to ensure more benefits for students from the Christian community, he said, adding that a Rs 20-lakh grant-in-aid will be provided under this scheme to the students for two years for PG studies across 500 empanelled universities abroad.

Although the Directorate of Minorities monitors the scheme, he said that he has requested the CM to allow KCDC to identify eligible students from the Christian community to help them pursue higher education. Earlier, there were 200 foreign universities where the students could apply under the scheme but now it has increased to 500, he said, and lauded Bommai's role. He said that KCDC has introduced many schemes for Christians.

INSP'S DEATH: CONG LEADERS DEMAND JUDICIAL PROBE

Bengaluru: KPCC working president and former home minister Ramalinga Reddy and former minister Krishna Byre Gowda on Saturday demanded a judicial probe into the death of KR Puram police station inspector Nandeesha HL, who died due to cardiac arrest after he was suspended. In a video clip, whose veracity is yet to be established, Minister MTB Nagaraj has admitted that the deceased inspector was under pressure to recover Rs 70-80 lakh which he had paid for his posting. The Congress leaders accused Home Minister Araga Jnanendra of receiving cash, and demanded that a sitting judge of the HC investigate to unearth the truth. "CM should resign or sack Jnanendra. There should be clarity as to who received the money," said Reddy, and urged that Nagaraj be served a notice as he had admitted to corruption in the police department similar to one which was issued to Congress Chittapur MLA Priyank Kharge by CID for raising the PSI scam issue. "When Bommai's cabinet colleague has himself admitted that officers are paying for getting posts, the home minister should be sacked," Byre Gowda demanded. ENS

As polls near, Medha Patkar flags 4Ms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Social activist Medha Patkar at a seminar in Bengaluru on Saturday | EXPRESS

With state Assembly elections approaching, social activist Medha Patkar said that it is time to address the '4Ms' which are machine, (EVMs, strengthening of the VVPAT system), money power (bringing details of electoral bonds, PM Cares funds in public domain), media, and muscle power (parties using mafia to win elections).

Participating in a convention Karnataka Convention on Electoral Democracy organised by the Constitutional Conduct Group, Jan Sarokar, People-First, National Alliance for People's Movements and Election Watch (Karnataka), she cited reports of media houses allegedly receiving cash in sweet boxes from the chief minister's office.

During the session on Election Commission of India, she said, "It has become politicised. Not just apathetic, but worse." Patkar spoke on fighting communal forces, and said that she along with like-minded people have been addressing it under 'Nafrat Chodo Samvidhan Bachao' (dump hatred, save Constitution).

"We have selected 300 districts, and will walk 75km in each of the district. People should look only for development to choose leaders. The campaign started on October 2 and will conclude on December 3," she added.

"The details of electoral bonds and PM Cares should be made public. Debates among candidates must be held for a better democracy," she said, adding that people are beginning to listen to Congress leader Rahul Gandhi after his Bharat Jodo Yatra, which she will join on November 17. "We are not just going to stop with convention and debate, we will go to public, prepare a common agenda, manifesto, and make the parties and aspiring candidates respond to them. We will make them raise issues of development," said Kathyayini Chamaraj, one of the organisers.

Suspects may have targeted six temples in Coimbatore: Cops

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Coimbatore

SUSPECTS in the Coimbatore car blast case, including Jameesha Mubin who died in the explosion, may have plotted terror attacks on six temples in the city, say police sources based on their investigation. The suspects had also conducted a recce near the Sangameswarar Temple before the car explosion on October 23, sources said.

Puliyakulam Mundhi Vinayagar Temple and Townhall Koniamman Temple, visited by devotees in large numbers, and three other temples in the city were among the targets, police said. The details were revealed by the suspects during the three-day custodial interrogation, sources said.

According to police sources, Jameesha Mubin was closely associated with his cousins Muhammad Azharudheen and Afsar Khan who allegedly helped him with the execution of the plot. The accused conducted recces and the blast occurred when Mubin was allegedly transporting the explosives to some other place in the city, police said.

The Sangameswarar Temple at Kottaimedu could have been one of their targets, but fortunately the explosive went off accidentally when Jameesha Mubin slowed his car on seeing police at Eswaran Kovil Street-Big Bazaar Street junction, about 200 metres away from the temple.

False charges: Suspects

Meanwhile, two of the arrested, Muhammad Riyas and Nawaz Ismail, who were charged with allegedly helping the deceased shift explosives to the car, claimed that they are falsely being framed.

MHA ALERTED TN ON ATTACK ON OCTOBER 18, SAYS ANNAMALAI

BJP state president K Annamalai has alleged that the MHA had alerted TN about the Coimbatore car explosion on October 18 itself, but the State intelligence department took cognisance of the report only on October 21 and wrote a letter to the district superintendent of police. Annamalai on Saturday said that he has evidence to back his claim.

No land for cremation of 70-yr-old converted Christian!

PRASHANT KUMAR SAHOO
@ Umerkote

IN a bizarre incident, the mortal remains of a 70-year-old man, who converted to Christianity five years ago, are waiting for a funeral 24 hours after his death in Odisha's Nabarangpur district as no community is allegedly giving space for the final rites.

Source said, Jitru Bhatra died at Gulibodon village in Jharigaon block on Friday morning and soon a controversy erupted over his funeral. While the Hindu community refused space in its cremation grounds, the Christians too refused the body saying his name was not registered with the church.

Jitru Bhatra's body being taken to Umerkote community health centre | EXPRESS

The stalemate continued till late into Saturday night, even as the body was shifted to the Umerkote community health centre morgue.

The villagers had asked Jitru to re-convert to Hinduism, but he did not relent. He was from the sole Christian family in the village. The village does not have a Christian cemetery and locals did not provide space for the funeral in the cremation ground for Hindus.

The locals told officials to shift the body elsewhere. Jharigaon Tahsildar Chinmaya Sagar and Umerkote IIC Deepak Kumar Jena rushed to the village and held discussions with the locals, but they remained adamant. With no other alternative, the administration allotted a site near Gulibodona for the funeral, but it led to more problems. Hundreds of residents from Gulibodona, and neighbouring Niropodor and Gobri villages rushed to the site and stopped the burial. Left in the lurch, the officials shifted the body to the morgue on Saturday evening.

As Jitru had not registered his name with the JELC Church at Umerkote, his body was also not allowed to be buried at the Christian graveyard there. Sagar said a decision will be taken on Sunday.

Nabarangpur ADM Bhaskar Raito said another place will be allotted on Sunday for burial. Senior officers will remain present to manage the situation, he added.

This is not the first such incident from the district. Last month, kin of a 32-year-old woman blocked the State Highway-39 after they were denied her burial at the local cemetery. The deceased, Pushpanjali Bagh, had recently converted to Christianity and did not have her name registered in the JELC church.

Drunk man dozes off on railway track, gets fined, jailed for a day

VINCENT D'SOUZA
@ Mangaluru

TIPPLERS dozing off on railway tracks may not be common in India. But, a Puttur man learnt a lesson the hard way by doing so. He was thrown behind bars for a day and was also made to cough up a fine for trespassing Railway property drunk.

Dinesh Bhandary (52), a resident of Padyannuru village and a labourer, was sleeping on the tracks near Puttur on Tuesday night, after drinking at a bar located close to the railway line. When some passersby asked him to move away and cautioned that he could be crushed under the wheels of a train on the busy route linking the coast with Bengaluru, he not only refused to listen, but also abused them for waking him up.

Soon, a photo of Bhandary resting on the tracks was uploaded on social media, following which Puttur-Subramanya rail users tweeted the same and tagged @RailSeva. The officials in the department took a serious note of the matter and dispatched RPF personnel from Sakleshpur to Puttur to catch the trespasser.

The very next day, cops went looking for Bhandary. "We were inquiring about him at a bar near the railway track. People told us that he was not a regular, but asked us to wait expecting him to return. Within a few minutes, we saw him approaching the bar," said an RPF officer.

When confronted, Bhandary admitted to the cops that he slept on the tracks, but argued that he had done nothing wrong. He agreed to go with the cops after they convinced him that it is a restricted area and sleeping on the tracks is a violation under the Railway Act. He was produced before a local court, which sent him to jail for a day and slapped a fine of Rs 700, after finding him guilty under two Sections of the Railway Act.

Aims Institute held its PG Graduation Day on Saturday. Dr Kiran Reddy, Founder - Principal, participated in the event, which was for students from various courses, including MBA, MCA, MFA, MCom and MSW.

GLOBAL rankings typically come embedded with bipolar effects. Either they are loved and endorsed or hated to be rejected.

Earlier this month, the Global Hunger Index ranked India at 107 out of 121 countries. It triggered political outrage. India is ranked behind war-torn Ukraine at 36, riot-hit Sri Lanka at 64, its neighbours – Nepal at 81, Bangladesh at 84, and Pakistan at 99. It trails even those countries which received food aid from India.

The index raises several questions, from the title to its construct. Three of the four parameters focus on the health of children. To be sure, malnutrition and its deleterious effects are visible in data released by the National Family Health Survey - 5. However, the state of child nutrition cannot be extrapolated to the entire population. The fourth parameter, the proportion of undernourished, is based on an opinion poll of 3000 folks for a populace of 1.4 billion. Unsurprisingly, the government trashed the rankings calling it "an erroneous measure of hunger and suffers from serious methodological issues".

This is by no means the first face-off between India and institutions publishing global rankings. Nor will it be the last. The inevitability stems from data deficits afflicting state and central governments. Public response to rankings rests on confirmation bias, what is known, what remains unknown and the quagmire of known unknowns. The optic of poor rankings is worsened by systemic inadequacies troubling the crafting of a coherent counter-narrative.

Governance rests on Peter Drucker's dictum, 'What gets measured gets improved'. India was among the early adopters of data collection on the performance of its policies and the economy. Yet even after seven decades, the data landscape is pock-marked with faultlines. India, for instance, must be one of the rare large economies which used consumption as a proxy to derive a picture of the income of its people. In 2021, the combined GSDP of states was found to be higher than that of India. There is the question of what is measured and what is not. There is also the reality of how it is measured and how often.

Take the issue of hunger. India currently runs two food security programmes – the subsidised food grains scheme under the National Food Security Act and a free ration scheme, the PM Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana – covering 75 per cent of the population or 800 million people. Are users claiming from both schemes? Has the offtake been mapped by geography, commodity and cost? Have users been surveyed? Assimilation of data at the granular level would inform Indians and the world. And yes, it could present a credible challenge to the claims of such rankings.

India justifiably prides itself on the fastest-growing economy. The revenue collections from GST averaging ₹1.4 lakh crore is evidence of its buoyancy. Indisputably, the GST filings are rich with information. The GST data, if opened up for analysis, has the potential to inform India on the micro currents of output and consumption across income quintiles and geographies, the interconnect and split between services and goods, how MSMEs are faring and more. This is yet to be done.

The state of unemployment, rather the state of job creation, is a political hot potato – and within that one hot-button issue is India's female workforce participation rate. The last NSS Employment Unemployment Survey was dated 2011-12. There is indeed a Periodic Labour Force Survey. The question is how comprehensive is the PLFS in its coverage and how well does it inform the economy and how much is unknown. The fact that the fifth-largest economy struggles to present a cogent picture of employment merits attention.

The deficit is worse when it comes to human indicators and is most visible in the gap in data collection and analysis by states. The state of affairs is illuminated in the registration of births and deaths.

Overall, nearly 11 per cent of births are not registered, and in 10 states across India, nearly 25 per cent of births are not registered. As for deaths, as per the Ministry of Home Affairs, 86 per cent of deaths are registered, whereas the health survey states that 71 per cent of deaths are registered. Of the deaths registered as per the Census (Vital Statistics/CRS 2020) 54.6 per cent were medically certified!

The pandemic was a wake-up call on the state of health care. Ostensibly, there have been efforts to improve access. The latest rural health statistics report is dated March 2021. Children and teachers missed school for nearly two years. Already quality was daunted -- by teacher absenteeism and vacancies. The latest update from UDISE is dated 2020-21 and doesn't inform about teacher vacancies or quality of education, for which one must refer to ASER by Pratham.

These vignettes represent the larger malaise of data deficits haunting India. The repeated encounters with deemed truths and disputed falsehoods necessitate a review of the presentation of India's development narrative not only to global purveyors of perception but, more importantly, to its own citizenry. India needs to restructure the landscape of data collection to craft a credible and coherent chronicle of where it is and where it aims to be.

THE TRUTH BEHIND BRITAIN UNDER HINDU RISHI RAJ

POWER & POLITICS

THE past week has seen much celebration among rightwingers in India about the dawn of an era of global Hindu domination. Dreams of attaining vishwaguru status seem nearer than ever, and a religious renaissance is said to be around the corner. Rishi Sunak's swift ascent to power as prime minister of Britain has been heralded as an example of the empire striking back to use a Star Wars analogy he would love, being a fan of the franchise.

The British media has fuelled this with reams devoted to the principles of dharma, artha, karma and moksha, which allow Hindus to be comfortable with both Lakshmi and Saraswati (wealth and wisdom). Much ink has been spilt over Diwali celebrations in No 11 Downing Street when Sunak was chancellor of the exchequer. Many photographs have been taken to display his cow-worshipping side. And there has been feverish excitement back home about the sacred thread he wore when he took the lectern outside 10 Downing Street to address the media as prime minister.

The truth is much as Sunak is a devout Hindu, he is also a loyal Englishman, a hardcore Eurosceptic Conservative who has benefited from the old school tie, traversing the posh route of Winchester, Oxford, Goldman Sachs in the city, with a brief detour across the Atlantic for a bit of Californian class. And therein lies the conundrum for his growing fandom in India. As The Spectator wrote of him recently, "His lack of interest in identity politics will doubtless put him at loggerheads with the race lobby – but this is a Prime Minister who will see no tension between his faith, his race and his country." He said after becoming a minister in Theresa May's cabinet in 2017: "I am now a citizen of Britain. But my religion is Hindu. My religious and cultural heritage is Indian. I proudly say that I am a Hindu, and my identity is also Hindu."

For Sunak, Britain is his Janmabhumi and Karmabhumi. A Davos man, as he has often been scoffingly called, Sunak has the right connections with a globally integrated cabal of corporates, financiers and high net worth individuals who finally influence the choice of heads of state in many countries. Unsurprisingly, over 65 per cent of cabinet ministers chosen by Sunak have studied in private schools as expensive as Winchester.

When Liz Truss was ousted, Sunak didn't face any challenge from anyone within the party. He was the least unacceptable choice of MPs who could be and was wooed, but not of his party because the election process was short-circuited. After all, the Sunaks are worth over Rs 7,000 crore ($825 million).

Yet Britain at large was divided in the middle on the elevation of a person who was surrounded by controversies, from his wife's questionable tax management to his participation in former Prime Minister Boris Johnson's garden party in violation of the Covid protocol. But British lawmakers who preach to the world about civility and honesty in public life welcomed Sunak as the saviour of their sinking economy and disintegrating society.

But hero-worshiping Indians, suffering from a talent famine at home, saw in his rise the growth of Hindu genetic dominance worldwide, echoed in Indians' managerial successes. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, while congratulating Sunak, sent "special Diwali wishes to the 'living bridge' of UK Indians, as we transform our historic ties into a modern partnership".

Indians are expecting him to act like an Indian and work for India. Sunak's foolish admirers in India were worse than his wiser foes at home. As prime minister of England, he is bound to protect the interests of his country of birth. That is his nationalism and kartavya. But Sunak's politics is driven purely by British interests. He has to win British votes and hearts and not those of India. If any evidence of this was needed, it was in the appointment of Suella Braverman as Home Secretary. She is tough as nails on immigration, and though she had resigned on the grounds of breach of protocol in Liz Truss's administration, it seemed to have been quickly forgotten. Earlier this year, she supported a flight to take asylum seekers to Rwanda. Nor is she apologetic about her anti-India views. She recently told a local magazine: "I have concerns about having an open borders migration policy with India because I don't think that's what people voted for with Brexit." She has been insisting that all immigrants must secure British identity and forget about their origin. Blaming Indians for overstaying in the UK, Braverman said: "My parents came here through legal and controlled migration. They spoke the language, threw themselves into the community, they embraced British values. When they arrived, they signed up to be part of our shared project because the United Kingdom meant something distinct. Integration was part of the quid pro quo." For her, a British passport comes with strings attached. She has even blamed Indians for riots during the India-Pakistan cricket match last month.

It is due to politicians like Braverman that the Free Trade Agreement (FTA) between the UK and India has missed many deadlines because she has proposed stringent conditions. By choosing her, Sunak has sent a clear message to India that when it comes to giving Indians free access to Britain, Indians will have to wait many months to get a visa, even for business or study in England. In a retaliatory move, India has also been very restrictive in granting visas to British citizens. Some cultural events are in jeopardy as the English sponsors and organisers have not been able to get visas in time for the events.

Excessive adoration of successful people of Indian origins has brought nothing tangible to India. Even the election of Kamala Harris as Vice President of the United States was celebrated as the victory of yet another gal from the desi gene pool. She never claimed her Indian origins. Nor did she support India against Pakistan. Most of the other Indians leading multinational behemoths have contributed little to the Indian growth story. Instead, they have earned easy access to the Indian establishment, including the prime minister, ministers, chief ministers and top civil servants.

Sunak is definitely going to let down his fangirls and fanboys in India. With the UK General Election barely 20 months away, Sunak knows that the Hindu label isn't powerful enough to ensure his return to 10 Downing Street. For that Sunak has to appear more British than the British themselves.

KERALA CHANCELLOR, GOVT, HIGHER EDUCATION

OPINION

DR. J. PRABHASH
Formerly, Professor of Political Science at the University of Kerala

IF some recent developments are any indication, Kerala's higher education is lurching towards an impasse. The unilateral actions of the Governor as Chancellor, the aggressive reactions of the Left Front government, and the universities openly challenging the Chancellor's authority all warrant such a conclusion. One is forced to ask, seeing all this: As the crucifixion of Jesus Christ had divided history into two (BC & AC), will this confrontation between the stakeholders result in a similar division of the history of Kerala's higher education into Before Confrontation (BC) and After Confrontation (AC)?

It's true that some of the issues about which the Chancellor expresses his concern need to be taken seriously – instances of maladministration reported from some of the Universities being just one example. That said, how he seeks to address these problems leaves much to be desired. It often gives the impression that he places too much faith in his democratic correctness while discounting the same in others. Also, of late, he is constantly keeping the government on tenterhooks on many issues. This is why some people attribute political motives to his actions and utterances.

The government, on its part, shows a deep faith in its political correctness and seeks to justify its actions based on its electoral mandate. Furthermore, as elsewhere in India, the Universities in the state also remain politicised, reducing most of the Vice-Chancellors to mere profiles, pawns in the hands of the ruling establishment, irrespective of which party calls the shots. As a result, many of them could hardly handle a crisis sagaciously or speak truth to power.

The current developments in Kerala's higher education sector must be viewed against this background. Among these, the move of the Chancellor seeking the resignation of nine Vice-Chancellors based on the Supreme Court Judgement in the APJ Abdul Kalam Technological University case is the latest and by far the most aggressive one. Notices were also served on the ViceChancellors of SNG Open University and Digital University. This means that 69 per cent of the State Universities will soon be without a regular Vice-Chancellor.

If Kalamandalam and Agricultural Universities, which already function without a regular executive head, are added, the percentage makes a quantum jump to eighty-one! Considering the probability of litigations, these institutions will have to remain headless (without a regular VC) for at least the coming year.

It goes without saying that this would be calamitous for higher education in Kerala, which is already beset with many a problem. This would be more so as the government is planning to bring about a thorough restructuring of the system. All three commissions appointed for the purpose have already submitted their reports, and the higher education department is going full steam in organising discussions on these reports and reaching an informed consensus on the issue.

Interestingly, what worries the government is not merely the eventuality of the Universities remaining rudderless at a time when it is contemplating deep reforms. While that remains a serious issue, it is more worrisome for it is the possibility of a new set of Vice-Chancellors, toeing a different political line, assuming office once the Chancellor sets the appointment process in motion. This will, no doubt, open up a new channel for the BJP to penetrate the higher education sector of the state, making inroads into its cultural arena as well. This is a cause for concern. Confrontation or Reconciliation?

Looking at the unfolding political developments, it is clear that the LDF is taking it as a political issue. The front is going ahead with its plan to organise state-wide protests, the culmination of which is the convergence of about one lakh people before the Raj Bhavan on November 15. While it has every right to do so, it would be in its interest if its leadership applied its mind on two issues: the consequence of such a large-scale mobilisation turning violent, more so as BJP is contemplating a counter-mobilisation strategy. Remember, storms always work with sound effects. The second is about the fallout of the conflict with the Governor on governance. For every pitfall, it is not the Governor but the government which is answerable to the people. Gone are the days when a party or front could also hold power and organise agitations.

This also gives one the impression that it is all about fixing and shifting the responsibility for the crisis a la Pontius Pilate washing his hands and shirking the accountability for his deeds. But everybody involved in this game is forgetting that the real issue before the people of Kerala is not about locating responsibility but its consequences for their children's educational future.

One is reminded of the question Napoleon's mother asked him whenever he boasted about his exploits: "How long, my son?" The question before us is also the same. How long could the state endure all this - the Chancellor and the government going their separate ways –and the resultant troubles? Won't they realise this is like the sea arguing with the rock?

It's nice if they understand that, as in Mahabharata, democracy has many heroes, and governance consists of mutual respect and sticking to one's turf. Otherwise, the result would be the proverbial epic battle. Democracy cannot withstand such a denouement as it can hardly take too high a political voltage without damaging the balance of power and mutual respect that hold institutions accountable and functional.

Powerful Xi Jinping

The political scene in China is deeply distressing as Chinese President Xi Jinping has consolidated his position as the supreme leader and become a virtual dictator with no room for dissenting voices. This has great lessons for India as we are also witnessing authoritarian tendencies growing in the country in the name of democracy and democratic institutions are under assault with dissent and free thinking not being allowed to take roots to strengthen democracy.

Fee parity

After New Zealand, the Indian cricket board has announced gender parity in cricketers' fees which deserves accolade. India's first women's cricket captain Shanta Rangaswamy heaped praise on BCCI and termed the move as 'revolutionary'. Hitherto, Indian women cricketers' fees were ₹2.5 lakh for tests and Rs 1 lakh for ODIs and in T20s, it was unconscionably low. The new hike would, of course, spur the enthusiasm for the women cricketers.

Paddy moisture content

The Union government increased the moisture level of kuruvai paddy from 17 percent to 19 per cent instead of 22 per cent increase requested by Tamil Nadu government. Due to high relative humidity because of rains during harvest, the crops succumb to storage pests and diseases, resulting heavy loss to the farmers. So, 22 per cent moisture content is necessary to maintain the quality of grains.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi during the recent meeting of state home ministers rightly advocated a common uniform for the entire police force in India. He added that although law and order is a state subject, it is essentially linked with unity and integrity of India and accordingly, in cooperative fedaralism, both centre and state have an inherent duty to preserve law and order.

Regarding applying CAA to refugees from Sri Lanka, it should be noted that CAA was brought in as a one-time measure applicable to refugees who had already arrived before December 2014, from countries with a record of ill-treating minorities. The problem in Sri Lanka is different, and present-day refugees are economic ones, not persecuted for their ethnicity or faith.

The government can also start manufacturing instead of relying on the private sector because businesses in that area might prioritise profit over quality.

Experts warn against rush for 'complex' UCC

Codification of certain laws like Muslim personal laws and others need thorough deliberation, say jurists

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

AS the Gujarat government announced its plans to set up a committee to implement the Uniform Civil Code (UCC) in the state, Constitutional experts say that states should not rush as it's a complex issue to deal with under the law. The UCC, which comes under Article 44 of the Constitution of India, calls for a common set of laws for all religious communities on matters such as marriage, divorce, adoption, inheritance, and succession.

On Saturday, Gujarat home minister Harsh Sanghvi said that it will constitute a panel headed by a retired HC judge along with three or four members. Earlier, Uttarakhand also formed a six-member panel led by retired justice Ranjana Prakash Desai to study ways for the implementation of UCC. Himachal Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh had also expressed their willingness to follow suit.

Constitution expert and former Lok Sabha secretary general P D T Achary told this newspaper that though both the Centre and the states are empowered to bring such a law as personal laws come under the Concurrent List of the Constitution, it shouldn't be passed in a hurry.

"There are several diverse customs among various religious communities in India. It's not easy to bring them all together and make common law. It's far too complex an issue to be dealt with under law in a haste. There should be a deeper study on this," he said, adding that wider public consultation is required in this matter.

Though Uttarakhand already has a model, former Law Commission Chairman B S Chauhan is skeptical about states going about the implementation.

"Which law will be applicable if a UP Muslim gets married to a Hindu from Gujarat? Interstate marriages are very common now and Gujarat UCC won't be applicable outside the state. It's a matter of study whether states can do it. To implement uniform law, we have to codify Muslim laws and others. The issue is far too complicated," says Chauhan, who headed the 21st Law Commission, which prepared a working paper on UCC. The Commission said that UCC is not tenable as many cases relating to personal laws are pending before the Supreme Court.

Legal expert and former VC NALSAR University of Law Faizan Mustafa told this newspaper that though the Uttarakhand government formed a panel to study the aspects of UCC, it doesn't have experts in the subject matter.

"Though I welcomed the Uttarakhand government move, I am disappointed that the expert committee has largely bureaucrats. A High court judge cannot be an expert in Muslim law. Committees must consist of eminent experts of personal laws," said Mustafa adding that when the Hindu Law committee was constituted in 1941, it consisted of experts in Hindu laws. "We need such experts," he said.

Experts also point out that as Gujarat has approximately 9,727 Parsi community members and thus applying a uniform law will lead to friction among communities. "Some of the Parsi personal laws regarding adoption and divorce are already contested. There should be wide consultation with the community members, "said a community member.

BJP govt's political gimmick before upcoming election, says Congress

NEW DELHI: Reacting sharply to the BJP government's move on forming a panel to study the possibility of implementing Uniform Civil Code, the Gujarat Congress on Saturday said that people would not be misled by the BJP government's decision. Calling it a "gimmick" ahead of Assembly elections, senior Congress leader Arjun Modhwadia said the state legislature has no power to make such laws. The Bhupendra Patel government earlier in the day announced that a committee headed by a retired HC judge would be formed to study the modalities of implementing the UCC. "This gimmick is aimed at misleading the public who are suffering due to inflation and joblessness and a host of other problems because of the failure of the government. The power to implement the Uniform Civil Code lies with the Centre. Personal laws were passed by Parliament, and the Gujarat Assembly does not have the power to make this law," Modhwadia said at a press conference. ENS

NHAI officials fill potholes to turn roads mishap-free

AMIT MUKHERJEE @New Delhi

THE officials at the National Highway Authority are working on war footing to ensure that the national highway stretches are pothole-free, to avoid any mishap or inconvenience to highway users.

The pace of the work has been intensified amidst the month-long initiative of the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways "Special Campaign 2" between 1st to 31st October to clear up pending items, categorised as "punch list", and put things in order, following which a circular was issued by NHAI. In the circular the authority stated that NHAI will hold officials liable for any fatal or serious accidents that occur as a result of poor road engineering works.

Giving update on the work status of the ongoing campaign, Alka Upadhyay, secretary MoRTH said that under the special measures to ensure that the National Highway stretches are pothole-free, out of a total of 1787 complaints from public, Parliamentarians, PMO and state governments, 1584 have already been addressed till October 29th.

In the circular, issued on October 18th, the NHAI said the authority has taken a serious view towards the dereliction of duty by the representative of NHAI/IE/AE involved in the process of issuance of the provisional certificate, thereby jeopardising the safety of users in utter disregard of the policy guidelines and provisions of the contract agreement.

"However, it has come to notice that provisional completion certificates are being issued keeping safety works such as road marking, road signages, end treatment of crash barriers in the punch list, which not only compromise the safety of users but also bring a bad name to NHAI upon the occurrence of accidents/ fatalities," the circular said.

Complaints addressed till Oct 29

- 993 out of 1,049 Public Grievances

SC sets aside HC order asking hubby to pay ₹10L to wife for interim bail

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court has set aside an order of the Jharkhand High Court asking a man to pay ₹10 lakh to his estranged wife as a condition to secure anticipatory bail in a dowry harassment case lodged against him.

The high court in its orders dated March 4 and 5, 2021, had directed the husband to deposit a demand draft of ₹10 lakh as ad-interim victim compensation in favour of his wife. A bench of justices Ajay Rastogi and CT Ravi Kumar said it found no reasonable justification for the high court to call upon the appellant (husband) to submit a demand draft of ₹10 lakh in availing the benefit of pre-arrest bail. "Consequently, the appeal stands allowed and the order passed by the high court dated 04/05-03/2022 directing the appellant to deposit a demand draft of ₹10 lakh is hereby set aside," it said.

The top court noted that the case is indeed a matrimonial dispute between the couple and their marriage was solemnised according to Hindu rites and customs on June 11, 2015, but later because of differences, an application was filed by the husband seeking dissolution of marriage on July 8, 2016.

It noted that the wife in the meantime also instituted a criminal complaint against her husband on July 27, 2017 before the chief judicial magistrate, which was later converted into a FIR on February 22, 2018 for offences under IPC and Dowry Prohibition Act. The bench, in its order dated October 18 said that being the non-cognisable offence, the appellant (husband) approached the court by filing an application seeking pre-arrest bail.

It said that the high court granted pre-arrest bail on the premise that the husband shall resume the conjugal life as stated in his bail application.

The bench observed that when the ground realities are such that the parties involved are into matrimonial discord, then instituting inter se proceedings to restore conjugal rights is otherwise not possible.

ARIF MOHAMMED KHAN

CONTRARIAN KHAN'S GAMBIT LEADS TO KERALA LOGJAM

M P PRASHANTH @Kochi

IS he on a genuine mission to set things right in the administration that is plagued by corruption and nepotism or a Trojan horse planted by the Sangh Parivar to unsettle a communist-led government? People of Kerala are unable to make their mind even while Governor Arif Mohammed Khan continues to fire missives to the office of the Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on a regular basis, the latest being his 'withdrawal of pleasure' on a minister in the Cabinet.

Expectation was different when Khan, the refined politician and scholar, landed in Kerala as the chief executive official of the state. Born in Bulundshahr in UP, Khan was elected to the UP Assembly in 1977 at the age of 26. A reformist in Islam, he had crossed swords with obscurantists in the religion. As a Union minister he fell out with Rajiv Gandhi when the Congress leader succumbed to the pressure from the Muslim clergy to upturn the verdict of the Supreme Court in Shah Bano case.

His book Text and Context: Quran and Contemporary Challenges is a collection of thought-provoking essays that reflected his unorthodox approach. Khan had hailed the Karnataka High Court verdict on hijab, saying it was not mandatory in Islam, and had opposed to the system of minority commissions.

In one of his interviews soon after he became the Governor of Kerala, Khan was all praise for the state for 'its progressive outlook and best literacy rate.'

Initially, many thought that Khan's reformist mindset would perfectly jell with the sentiments of the Left government. And it is hoped that any difference of opinion between the governor and the state government would be sorted out in a manner that suits gentleman politics. But it seems that Khan had a different plan for Kerala. The seasoned politician, who made a foray into public life as the student union leader at Aligarh Muslim University, was ready to risk his image to accomplish 'the mission' he had in mind. First signs of uneasiness emanated from him after Kerala Assembly passed a resolution against the Citizenship Amendment Act in 2019. He slammed the resolution as unconstitutional because, according to him, the Act was purely a central subject. The unsavoury development at the 80th session of the Indian History Congress held at Kannur in December 2019 was the first direct face-to-face between the governor and the left dispensation in Kerala. Skipping the written speech, Khan went on to defend CAA in a reply to the attack by the earlier speakers. The governor alleged that he was disrupted by the elderly historian Irfan Habib.

NEWSMAKER

What we saw after the incident was a full-blown battle between the governor and the CPM-led government that often slipped into mudslinging and slander. The person, who held important portfolios like home, civil aviation and information and broadcasting at the Centre, had no qualm in calling a vice-chancellor a criminal and dubbing Kerala as a state surviving solely on liquor and lottery. The tussle went to the extent of the governor withdrawing his 'pleasure' on Minister for Finance K N Balagopal, hinting that he can no longer continue in the Cabinet. Armed with a Supreme Court order, Khan set in motion the process to remove nine vice-chancellors in Kerala.

Khan also had a meeting with the RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat, fuelling speculations of a political conspiracy. Rumours are rife that Khan, who would comfortably fit into the RSS model of 'Nationalist Muslim', would be BJP's trump card in Kerala, where the party is desperately hoping for a breakthrough.

The high-voltage drama involving the governor and the CPM has almost rendered the Opposition redundant in Kerala. It has been pushed to the role of a confused onlooker, watching helplessly the unfolding of events.

From where has the money come? asks Guj minister on AAP 'deal'

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

THE report carried by this paper on AAP's suspected hawala scandal is true, Gujarat Home Minister Harsh Sanghvi said on Saturday.

"Black money was sent by AAP to Gujarat through hawala & angadia from Delhi, Punjab and other means. This money has been caught in Bardoli, Ahmedabad, and other places. Their (AAP) Bardoli candidate has accepted that this money came from Delhi AAP's office," Sanghvi said. "He received the cash through an angadia. From where has this money come? This question should be asked to AAP leaders," Sanghavi said. A statement sent to this newspaper by AAP spokesman Pritam Singh said: "AAP has nothing to do with any such money. The AAP candidate has not given any such statement. It is an attempt by BJP to tarnish the AAP image due to the growing graph of the party in the state. The BJP has become very desperate and will resort to similar dirty tricks in the next one month." However, this newspaper stood by its story and took AAP candidate Rajendra Solanki's statement given to the police on October 17. In the statement, he accepted in writing: "He (Saurabh) said that the money was received by him from an angadia (hawala operator). The money was meant for the expenses of the party event."

Police sources said the Anti-Terrorism Squad, the Income Tax and the state's Special Operation Group are investigating the individuals in various cities of Gujarat in which transactions worth crores of rupees have reportedly surfaced. An official said: "We have detected some more cases of hawala through angadia in Ahmedabad as well. The investigation is going on, he added.

"So far we have come to know that Saini, a Punjab resident, and another person, Rudra Pratap, a resident of Bihar, a resident of Madhya Pradesh, a person named Kumar from Haryana, and Sehjad from Delhi have been interrogated in connection with hawala links," he said.

TB cases rose by 18% in Covid-hit 2021: WHO

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

A total of 21.4 lakh tuberculosis (TB) cases were notified in India in 2021 — 18 percent higher than 2020 — with over 22 crore people screened for the disease across the country for early detection and treatment, according to the WHO'S Global TB report. With 28 per cent cases, India was among the eight countries accounting for more than two-third (or 68.3 per cent) of the total TB patients' count, the World Health Organisation report, released on Thursday said.

Of the total TB deaths, 187,000 patients were also positive for HIV (human immunodeficiency virus). Nearly 82 per cent of global TB deaths among HIV-negative people occurred in the African and South-East Asia regions, with India alone accounting for 36 per cent of such deaths, the report further said.

India was among the three countries — others being Indonesia and the Philippines — that accounted for most of the reduction in 2020 (67 per cent of the global total).

These countries made partial recoveries in 2021, but still accounted for 60 per cent of the global reduction compared with 2019, said the report, which also highlighted the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on the diagnosis, treatment, and burden of disease for TB all over the world. The report said around 10.6 million people across the world were diagnosed with tuberculosis in 2021, an increase of 4.5 per cent from 2020, while 1.6 million patients died of the disease. Taking note of the WHO report, the Union Health Ministry on Friday said that India has, in fact, performed "far better" on major metrics as compared to other countries over time. "India's TB incidence for the year 2021 is 210 per 100,000 population — compared to the baseline year of 2015 (incidence was 256 per lakh of population in India); there has been an 18 per cent decline which is 7 percentage points better than the global average of 11 per cent," the ministry said in a statement. These figures also place India at the 36th position in terms of incidence rates (from largest to smallest incidence numbers), it said.

Under the Pradhan Mantri TB Mukt Bharat Abhiyan, an initiative of the government, more than 40,000 Nikshay Mitra are supporting over 10.45 lakh TB patients all over the country presently, the Union Health Ministry said.

The ministry further said that while the Covid-19 pandemic impacted TB programmes across the world, India was able to successfully offset the disruptions through the introduction of critical interventions in 2020 and 2021, which led to the National TB Elimination Programme notifying over 21.4 lakh TB cases – 18 per cent higher than 2020.

It said the success can be attributed to an array of measures implemented in the programme over the years.

The statement said before the publication of the global report, the health ministry had communicated to WHO that the ministry has initiated domestic studies to arrive at a more accurate estimate of incidence and mortality rates in a systematic manner and India's data will be provided after conclusion of studies in early part of 2023, the statement said.

Coal scam kingpin Suryakant Tiwari surrenders in court

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE Special PMLA Court in Raipur on Saturday witnessed dramatic scenes after Suryakant Tiwari, considered the 'main kingpin' in the Chhattisgarh coal scam whom the Enforcement Directorate (ED) was chasing in a money laundering case, surrendered.

Tiwari, 50, surrendered before the court of Additional District And Sessions Judge Ajay Singh Rajput. The ED had earlier cited him as the main kingpin before the court in the coal transportation scam.

Tiwari was remanded to ED's custody for 12 days after the central agency in its plea before the court stated the need for further interrogation and gathering evidence in connection with the coal scam and money laundering case.

Tiwari was absconding since October 11, following the raids by the ED in different districts of Chhattisgarh. The searches were then conducted at the official premises of three IAS officers, the deputy secretary to the chief minister, some businessmen and a few leaders of the ruling Congress.

Based on the initial probe into the money laundering case, the ED arrested IAS officer Sameer Vishnoi and two businessmen, Laxmikant Tiwari and Sunil Agrawal. The trio was in ED's custody for 15 days, after which the Raipur court sent them to judicial remand till November 10.

Tiwari, who operates a robust business mainly in coal, managed to swear allegiance to whichever regime came to power, right from the first Chhattisgarh chief minister Ajit Jogi to the BJP that ruled for 15 years and now the Congress.

The ED claimed to have traced a cartel involving bureaucrats, businessmen and politicians that entered into an alleged conspiracy pertaining to a scam in which illegal levy of ₹25 per ton of coal was extorted and transported in the state. It was allegedly that Tiwari operated a parallel system to extort illegal levy on coal.

"Around ₹2-3 crore was generated on a daily basis," an ED official said. The agency initiated the probe based on the FIR lodged earlier by the Income Tax department against the conspiracy.

HP Cong 'chargesheet' targets BJP

BJP leader Anurag Thakur retorts, saying it is the Congress leadership that is on bail

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Himachal Pradesh unit of the Congress on Saturday promised to set up a commission of inquiry into all the government recruitments done by the Jairam Thakur-led BJP government, if it is voted to power in the upcoming Assembly elections. The Congress released a 23-page 'chargesheet' against the BJP government, saying that the document can be summed up as "Bhajpa ke teen bhai: berozgari, bhrashtachar, mehngai (the three brothers of BJP: unemployment, corruption, inflation)."

> Question papers were leaked during recruitment of police constables and junior engineers, and sold for `6-8 lakh, but those responsible for it are either sitting in the secretariat or in the police HQ
>
> Mukesh Agnihotri, Leader of Opposition

Leader of Opposition Mukesh Agnihotri released the document, titled 'Loot ki chhoot' at Shimla, and alleged major discrepancies in posts filled in the past few years under the current regime. "Virbhadra is known as 'vikas wale' CM, Shanta Kumar as 'pani wale' CM and PK Dhumal as 'sadkon wale' CM, but Jairam will go down in the history of Himachal as 'naukri bechne wale' CM," he said.

"Question papers were leaked during recruitment of police constables and junior engineers, and sold for ₹6-8 lakh, but those responsible for it are either sitting in the secretariat or in the police HQ. Also, people from outside the state were given jobs," Agnihotri alleged.

He added, "We have decided to constitute a commission of inquiry to probe all recruitments, as there have been gross irregularities in appointments made by HP Public Service Commission and the Staff Selection Board at Hamirpur."

He also said that an inquiry will be ordered into purchase of water pipes for ₹2,200 crore, which are now lying dumped across the state. Agnihotri said that once the Congress government is formed, it will send a bill of ₹500 crore to the BJP which the latter spent on holding rallies of PM Narendra Modi, and other ministers and chief ministers on party's campaigns.

Congress' campaign committee chairman Sukhwinder Singh Sukhu said those responsible for irregularities will not be spared in every department, including purchases made during the Covid-19 pandemic, which also resulted in resignation of then state BJP chief Rajeev Bindal. "Democracy has been weakened under BJP as powers of all constitutional bodies have been diluted," he said.

Responding to the 'chargesheet' against the BJP government, Information and Broadcasting Minister Anurag Thakur said, "Those whose national leadership is on bail have no moral right to issue chargesheet against others."

Keen to fight 2024 polls from Mandi: Kangana

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chandigarh

ACTOR Kangana Ranaut on Saturday said that she is willing to join politics if an opportunity comes her way to enter the electoral fray to "serve the people of Himachal Pradesh".

The National Award-winning actor, who hails from Manali, was speaking at an event in Shimla ahead of the Assembly polls in the state on November 12. Revealing that her family had a Congress background but they became BJP supporters after seeing the functioning of the Narendra Modi government, Kangana said, "The country has witnessed a change after 2014 with Narendra Modi becoming the prime minister, as a feeling of nationalism and sense of pride prevails among every citizen today." She added, "I am open to public service if given a chance and would consider myself fortunate to serve the people of my home state as I am open to all kinds of participation."

She also expressed her readiness to contest elections. "If people of Himachal, especially Mandi, and the BJP would want me to contest the Lok Sabha elections from Mandi parliamentary seat in 2024, I will be willing to contest. But there are better people who should come forward in politics," she said.

Talking about the current political scenario, Kangana said that Rahul Gandhi is no match for Modi. She said, "Himachal Pradesh will not fall for false promises of the Aam Aadmi Party as freebies won't work in this state."

When asked about her social media presence, she said, "If I return on Twitter, people's lives will become sensational and my life will become problematic because cases are filed against me in different states. I'm happy that I'm not there on Twitter. But if my account is revived, then definitely, you will get a lot of masala."

Mineral corp adopts two tigers at Hyd zoo

The nation's largest iron-ore enterprise National Mineral Development Corporation (NMDC) has achieved a rare 'green' distinction as the first PSU to take up care of two tigers at the Nehru Zoological Park in Hyderabad. The state-run Navratna enterprise – that operates two major iron ore complexes in south Chhattisgarh's Dantewada – has undertaken the adoption of one Royal Bengal Tiger and a white tiger. This comes as part of its biodiversity conservation and sustainable development efforts. Now, wildlife enthusiasts and environmentalists hope other PSUs as well as corporations too will extend similar gestures.

Shinde govt reaches out to tribals with ₹11K cr

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

IN bid to reach out to the tribal community, the newly formed Maharashtra government led by Chief Minister Eknath Shinde has earmarked over ₹11,000 crore for various development schemes. Shinde made the announcement during a visit to the tribal district of Nandurbar to inaugurate various schemes.

"We want to bring tribal people into the mainstream. A huge pool of funds has been allocated in the state budget for the welfare of tribal communities," Shinde said, adding that the government is determined to plan time-bound programmes for the purpose. Shinde and Deputy CM Devendra Fadnavis are likely to increase their visits to tribal regions in the coming days.

Talking about how the state government is taking up development works rapidly, Shinde said, "We are striving to accomplish all-round development of tribal, farmers, labourers, workers, and deprived sections of the society. More than 400 government decisions have been taken in the last four months. The government is trying to bring big industries to the state to provide employment to the youth."

Shinde added that funds for roads, street lights, water supply and various other infrastructure works in Nandurbar city will be made available through Nagarotthan Yojana. "Besides, space for power substation will be made available in Nawapur MIDC. The new building of Nandurbar Municipal corporations is very beautiful and well-equipped and citizens will benefit from it," the chief minister said.

He added that on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of Independence, the free state bus travel scheme was launched for senior citizens aged above 75 years. More than one crore senior citizens have benefited from this scheme, he said. Besides, the damage limit was increased to 3 hectares to provide maximum relief to the victims of heavy rains and floods, with which about 30 lakh farmers have been given assistance of ₹6,000 crore as compensation, Shinde added.

Blame game over shifting of projects

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE ruling party in Maharashtra has blamed the Uddhav Thackeray-led government for the relocation of three mega projects from the state to Gujarat. Maharashtra Industries Minister Uday Samant said that the decisions for the Tata airbus and Vedanta-Foxconn semiconductor chip projects were taken before their government was formed.

"The Uddhav Thackeray government is responsible for today's sorry state of affairs. No state gets mega projects in a day or months," Samant said, adding that they have approved 10 projects worth ₹25,368 crore in three months.

Seeking the resignations of Shinde and Samant over the issue, Aditya Thackeray said, "We worked hard to get these projects on board, but the incumbent government failed to retain them."

'Sale' of girls: NHRC, Gehlot govt lock horns

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE alleged sale and purchase of girls to settle financial accounts by debt-ridden families in Rajasthan's Bhilwara has become a major political issue in the state. The issue has pitted the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) and the state government against each other.

The NHRC has shot off a team to Bhilwara and the opposition BJP alleged laxity on the part of the Ashok Gehlot government. However, state minister Pratap Khachariawas, retaliating to the NHRC, has said that instead of doing politics the panel should have investigated the matter first.

Sangeeta Beniwal, chairperson, State Child Protection Commission, also reached Bhilwara on Saturday where she defended the state government by asserting that the matter dates to 2019. At the time, the government had rehabilitated the girls by running a special operation, she said.

> 'A debt trap'
>
> According to media reports, in many settlements in Bhilwara, brokers used to buy and sell girls from poor families on stamp paper. Shockingly, parents of girls from poor families were first given debts and in case of non-payment of loans they were auctioned off

The issue of selling daughters by debt-ridden families through caste panchayats on stamp paper gained momentum after the NHRC issued a notice to the state government on the basis of media reports and sought a response.

A two-member NHRC team even reached the Pander village where the alleged selling of daughters by writing them off on a stamp paper had come to light.

The issue involved auctioning of girls aged between eight and 18 years. There were also claims that girls were being sent to foreign countries and to Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Mumbai and Delhi. There has also been talk of the involvement of caste panchayats in this matter.

Bombs hurled at kids after they discover explosives unit, 5 hurt

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

FIVE children were injured after a group of miscreants hurled crude bombs at them for being caught stockpiling them. The youngsters received splinter injuries. The incident happened at Narendrapur in South 24 Parganas, where the boys spotted a mud hut where some miscreants were stockpiling crude bombs, and peeped through the holes in the wall out of curiosity, police said.

"The minor boys, while playing, went close to the hut and noticed the illegal activities. The suspects first asked the boys to go home, but the curious teenagers continued to roam around the hut. Suddenly the miscreants hurled bombs at them," an officer of Narendrapur police station said.

As the news of the attack spread, representatives of the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) visited the spot and met the injured minors and their family members.

> FACT FILE
>
> - A hut caught attention of minors playing football
> - Curiosity brings them closer
> - Peeped through hole in walls
> - Spotted stockpiling
> - Asked to go home but continued peeping
> - Warned to go home
> - Denied and bombed
> - Probe launched into rivalry between two TMC factions

Meanwhile, local residents told the police that there is rivalry between two groups of the ruling Trinamool Congress and the stockpile of crude bombs was a part of it.

The injured minors are Arnab Haldar (13), Surya Chowdhury (13), Bikram Naskar (12), Suman Das (12) and Laltu Auddy (13). They were taken to the nearby Baghajatin State General Hospital for treatment.

"The locals have alleged that the president of TMC's Sonarpur panchayat samiti, Prabir Sarkar, and a member of the local panchayat, Basudeb Mondal, are involved in long-standing rivalry over the issue of controlling the area dotted with waterbodies and wetlands. The rivalry surfaced over organising Jagadhhatri puja in the area which is under Mondal's control, and Sarkar is desperate to establish his dominance," a police officer said.

Mondal alleged that Sarkar's followers demolished the puja pandal on Friday morning, and later in the evening, they hurled bombs to create unrest in the area. Sarkar, however, refuted the allegation

CPM's South 24 Parganas district secretary Shamik Lahiri said that the state is being run by miscreants now, and even children are not being spared.

The police has arrested seven persons so far and seized a huge cache of crude bombs.

HC judge junks 45 bail pleas on the same day, SC asks why

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

TAKING exception to the conduct of an Allahabad High Court judge, who dismissed 45 anticipatory bail pleas on a single day in the same fashion for non-prosecution, the Supreme Court recently asked the HC's registrar to seek reasons from the judge for his peculiar behaviour.

A bench of judges Ajay Rastogi and C T Ravikumar remarked that the judge's approach in passing such orders was unacceptable. "We are not supposed to comment at this stage but direct the HC's Registrar to submit the report to this Court after obtaining from the concerned judge (Krishan Pahal, J) as to what prevailed upon him in passing the orders consistently almost in 45 matters at a given point of time on the same date dismissing them in the same fashion for non-prosecution, that too when one has approached the Court for protecting his liberty," the SC said.

Vande Bharat hits bull in Gujarat, third such incident in a month

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Ahmedabad

FIRST, it was a herd of buffaloes. Then, a cow. On Saturday, it was a bull that was hit by the Vande Bharat Express. The semi-high speed train sustained slight damages to its front panel for the third time in less than a month when it hit a bull near Atul in Gujarat. The incident occurred at around 8.20 am when the train was going to Gandhinagar from Mumbai. The accident caused a delay of 20 minutes. The animal died in the accident.

"There was no damage to the train, except to the nose cone covering of the front coach occupied by the drivers. All the passengers on board were safe," Western Railway spokesperson Sumit Thakur said.

Earlier, similar incidents took place on two consecutive days on October 6 and 7, when the Vande Bharat Express rammed into cattle. The first incident took place between Vatva and Maninagar railway stations in Gujarat, when four buffaloes were killed.

The nose panel of the train had to be replaced overnight. The next one occurred near Anand in the state, and involved a cow being hit. In both the accidents, the train's front side suffered partial damages.

Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw had then said that cattle-hits are unavoidable. "The train which reaches the top speed of 160kmph in a few seconds, has been designed keeping the possibility of such incidents in mind by experts," he had said, adding that the ministry is erect fencing along the tracks on which semi and high-speed trains run.

The indigenously designed and manufactured train, the third service under the Vande Bharat series, was flagged off by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on September 30 from Gandhinagar and started its commercial run the next day.

The railway ministry is working to run 75 Vande Bharat trains by August 15, 2023 and 400 of them in the next three years.

RUSSIA CLEARING HOSPITALS IN KHERSON AHEAD OF BATTLE

Comes as advancing Ukrainian soldiers close in on the region

MOSCOW/KYIV

RUSSIAN troops moved large numbers of sick and wounded comrades from hospitals in southern Ukraine's Kherson region, Ukrainian military officials reported on Saturday as their forces fought to retake a province overrun by invading soldiers early in the war.

Kremlin-installed authorities in the mostly Russian-occupied region previously urged civilians to leave the city of Kherson, the region's capital. The Moscow-appointed authorities in Kherson also were reported this week to have joined tens of thousands of residents who fled to other Russia-held areas ahead of an expected Ukrainian advance.

"The so-called evacuation of invaders from the temporarily occupied territory of the Kherson region, including from medical institutions, continues," the General Staff of the Armed Forces of Ukraine said in a morning update.

"All equipment and medicines are being removed from Kherson hospitals."

The military's claims could not be independently verified. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said in a nightly video address Friday that the Russians were 'dismantling the entire health care system' in Kherson and other occupied areas.

"The occupiers have decided to close medical institutions in the cities, take away equipment, ambulances. just everything," Zelenskyy said.

"They put pressure on the doctors who still remained in the occupied areas for them to move to the territory of Russia." Kherson is one of four regions of Ukraine that Russian President Vladimir Putin illegally annexed last month and where he subsequently declared martial law. The others are Donetsk, Luhansk and Zaporizhzhia. Elsewhere on Saturday, at least two Russian ships suffered damage in a major port in Crimea, the Ukrainian peninsula annexed by Moscow in 2014. Ukraine and Russia offered different versions of what happened and who was to blame.

The Russian Defence Ministry said two ships received 'minor damage' during an alleged Ukrainian drone attack on navy and civilian vessels docked in Sevastopol at 4.20 am. The city, Crimea's largest, hosts the headquarters of Russia's Black Sea Fleet.

The ministry said 16 drones were used in the attack and that Russian forces had "repelled" them.

Earlier Saturday, the Kremlin-installed governor of Sevastopol reported an 'ongoing' drone attack.

An adviser to Ukraine's Interior Ministry gave a conflicting account, claiming that that "careless handling of explosives" had caused blasts on four warships in Russia's Black Sea Fleet.

Anton Gerashchenko wrote on Telegram that the vessels included a frigate, a landing ship and a ship that carried cruise missiles used in a deadly July attack on a western Ukrainian city.

Neither side's claim could be immediately verified.

As Kyiv's forces sought gains in the south, Russia kept up shelling and missile attacks in the country's east, Ukrainian authorities said on Saturday. AFP

Moscow to raise Crimea attack at Security Council

Russia said on Saturday that it would raise the Nord Stream pipeline blasts and an alleged drone attack in Crimea, both incidents in which Moscow has alleged British involvement, at the UN Security Council. "The Russian side intends to draw the attention of the international community, in particular through the UNSC, to the series of terrorist attacks against Russia in the Black Sea and the Baltic Sea, including the involvement of Great Britain," Russian foreign ministry said

Drone attack targets Putin's Black Sea naval fleet

MOSCOW

THE Russian army accused Ukraine of a "massive" drone attack on its Black Sea Fleet in Crimea on Saturday, claiming the UK helped in the strike that damaged a ship.

Sevastopol in Moscow-annexed Crimea, which has been targeted several times in recent months, serves as the headquarters for the fleet and a logistical hub for operations in Ukraine.

The Russian army claimed to have "destroyed" nine aerial drones and seven maritime ones, in an attack early Saturday in the port.

Moscow's forces alleged British "specialists", whom they said were based in the southern Ukrainian city of Ochakiv, had helped prepare and train Kyiv to carry out the strike. In a further singling out of the UK, Moscow said the same British unit was involved in explosions of the Nord Stream gas pipeline last month.

Moscow's military said ships targeted at their Crimean base were involved in a UN-brokered deal to allow the export of Ukrainian grain.

Russia had recently criticised the deal, saying its own grain exports have suffered due to Western sanctions. Mikhail Razvozhayev, the Moscow-instaled governor of Sevastopol, said Saturday's drone attack was the "most massive" the peninsula had seen. AFP

Special voting room for Covid patients proposed

The Health Ministry (MoH) of Malaysia proposed two ways to allow Covid-19 positive individuals to vote in the upcoming 15th general election (GE5). Tan Sri Dr Noor Hisham Abdullah, Health director-gneral said, "A decision on the standard operating procedure (SOP) for Covid-19 positive individuals to vote will be known this coming Monday. The first method is to provide a special ... room for Covid-19 positive individuals to vote. The other option is for Covid-19 patients to go to an MoH tent where we will make sure they wear the necessary protective equipment before being taken to the polling station. There is no need to queue." The director-general had earlier stated that non-critical Covid-19 patients would be allowed to cast their vote in the elections, subject to the imposition of strict SOP by the EC. The polling is on November 19

Board unveils plans for mangrove plants

Singapore's Nationals Park Board (NParks) and OCBC Bank on Saturday unveiled plans for 8,000 mangrove plants to 'naturally take root' at Pulau Ubin , which is currently filled with abandoned aquaculture ponds. The OCBC Mangrove Park at Sungei Durian in Pulau Ubin will be the nation's first laege-scale project to adopt the Ecological Mangrove Restoration procedure, OCBC and NParks jointly said in a statement. It is estimated that the work will get completed by 2026. The community engagement and outreach programmes will be introduced and will also provide extra recreational opportunities for public. OCBC also said that it will work with staff volunteers and community to plant additional 1,000 mangrove saplings in the next six years, including at Sungei Puaka and Sungei Jelutong ponds

Pak govt bars channels from telecasting Imran's speeches and long march

ISLAMABAD

In an unusual move, Pakistan's Electronic Media Regulatory Authority (PEMRA) has directed television channels operating in the country not to live telecast former Pakistan premier Imran Khan's speeches and the long march led by him to force the government to announce a date for early general elections.

Soon afterwards, the Islamabad police on Saturday barred hotels and guest houses in the federal capital from providing accommodation to the participants of the long march.

The PEMRA said it was observed during a speech that 'statements against state institutions were aired live' in violation of the code of conduct and court orders. It warned that legal action, leading to suspensions and revocation of licences, would be initiated in case of non-compliance.

The long march dubbed as 'Haqeeqi Azadi March' began from the Liberty Chowk area in Lahore on late Friday afternoon and the participants moved slowly as his Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) party held power shows at Ichhra, Mozang, Data Sahib and Azadi Chowk areas of Lahore.

The march stopped at Data Darbar last night and will resume its journey on Saturday. It plans to travel on the historic GT Road and arrive in Islamabad on November 4 to hold a big protest rally, which may be transformed into a sit-in.

Imran has said no one can stop the PTI's long march, adding his supporters must wait for his next decision when he reaches Islamabad.

"As to what will happen when we reach Islamabad, you have to wait as to what I decide after reaching Islamabad," he told a journalist in a video tweeted by Aaj TV.

On the second day, the convoy will march to Kamoke via Muridke, where the PTI chairman was expected to address his supporters, according to the organisers. PTI

Oldest prisoner released from Guantanamo, back in Pakistan

ISLAMABAD

A 75-year-old from Pakistan who was the oldest prisoner at the Guantanamo Bay detention centre was released and returned to Pakistan on Saturday, the foreign ministry in Islamabad and the US Defense Department said.

Saifullah Paracha was reunited with his family after more than 17 years in custody in the US base in Cuba.

Paracha had been held on suspicion of ties to al-Qaida since 2003, but was never charged with a crime. Last year in May, he was notified that he had been approved for release. He was cleared by the prisoner review board, along with two other men in November 2020.

The notification did not provide detailed reasoning for the decision and concluded only that Paracha is 'not a continuing threat' to the US, as per Shelby Sullivan-Bennis, who represented him at his hearing. The DOD said that the US appreciates "the willingness of Pakistan...to support ongoing US efforts focused on responsibly reducing the detainee population and ultimately closing the Guantanamo Bay facility."

In Pakistan, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, said it had completed process to facilitate Paracha's repatriation. Paracha, who lived in the US was a wealthy businessman in Pakistan.

Authorities alleged he was an al-Qaida 'facilitator' who helped two of the conspirators in the Sept 11 plot with a financial transaction. He has maintained that he didn't know they were al-Qaida and denied any involvement in terrorism. AP

Comedian in the soup over comments on Sunak's win

LONDON: Noted comedian and television host Trevor Noah has defended himself following a row over his comments on the appointment of Britain's new premier, saying he never said "the entire UK is racist" and was only responding to those who do not want Rishi Sunak in that role. On the US news programme The Daily Show earlier this week, Noah said there had been a 'backlash' over Sunak. His comments were criticised in the UK, with many including ex-chancellor and Pakistani-origin Conservative Party leader, Sajid Javid, calling Noah 'simply wrong'. But Noah has now defended his segment, saying he was reacting to racists, and, "That's why I said some people," the BBC reported.

Lewis bagged three Grammys, recorded with some of the greatest stars

FOR a brief time, in 1958, he was a contender to replace Presley as rock's prime hit maker after Elvis was drafted into the Army. Over the following decades, Lewis struggled with drug and alcohol abuse, legal disputes and physical illness.

Lewis reinvented himself as a country performer in the 1960s, and the music industry eventually forgave him, long after he stopped having hits. He won three Grammys, and recorded with some of the industry's greatest stars. In 2006, Lewis came out with 'Last Man Standing,' featuring Mick Jagger, Bruce Springsteen, B B King and George Jones. Lewis married seven times, and was rarely far from trouble or death.

The son of one-time bootlegger Elmo Lewis, Lewis was born in Ferriday, Louisiana. As a boy, he first learned to play guitar, but found the instrument too confining and longed for an instrument that only the rich people in his town could afford - a piano. His life changed when his father pulled up in his truck one day and presented him a dark-wood, upright piano.

He took to the piano immediately. Conflicted early on between secular and sacred music, he quit school at 16, with plans of becoming a piano-playing preacher. Lewis briefly attended Southwestern Assemblies of God University in Waxahachie, Texas, a fundamentalist Bible college, but was expelled, reportedly, for playing the 'wrong' kind of music.

'Great Balls of Fire,' a sexualised take on Biblical imagery that Lewis initially refused to record, and 'Whole Lotta Shakin' were his most enduring songs and performance pieces.

In 1986, along with Elvis, Chuck Berry and others, he made the inaugural class of inductees for the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame and joined the Country Hall of Fame this year. (AP)

120 DEAD, 100 HURT IN SEOUL HALLOWEEN FEST STAMPEDE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AT least 120 people were killed and over 100 were injured after being crushed by a large crowd pushing forward on a narrow street during Halloween festivities in Seoul's Itaewon neighbourhood on Saturday, South Korean officials said.

"The high number of casualties was the result of many being trampled during the Halloween event," AFP quoted fire department official Choi Seongbeom as saying. Officials fear the toll could go up.

The stampede took place around 10.22 pm local time.

Officials had said earlier that 50 people were in cardiac arrest and that more than 140 ambulances were dispatched to the scene to aid the victims.

The district of Itaewon is a popular destination for people celebrating Halloween in the South Korean capital.

The National Fire Agency separately said in a statement that officials were still trying to determine the exact number of emergency patients.

TV footage and photos from the scene showed ambulance vehicles lined up in streets amid a heavy police presence and emergency workers moving the injured in stretchers.

Local media said around 1,00,000 people flocked to Itaewon streets for the Halloween festivities, which were the biggest since the start of the pandemic following the easing of Covid-19 restrictions in recent months.

Why India exploring FTAs

Refrains from joining regional blocs as it sees them impediment to its industrial aspirations

MONIKA YADAV

WITH the conventional markets like the US and Europe slowing down, India is exploring new avenues to boost trade and export-led growth.

The government has set ambitious trade and export targets – India aims to achieve a $2 trillion trade target by 2030, while it wants to achieve $500 billion merchandise exports by 2022-23 – and to achieve these goals it needs to explore newer trade partners. While it has avoided joining regional trade agreements, it continues to explore bilateral deals.

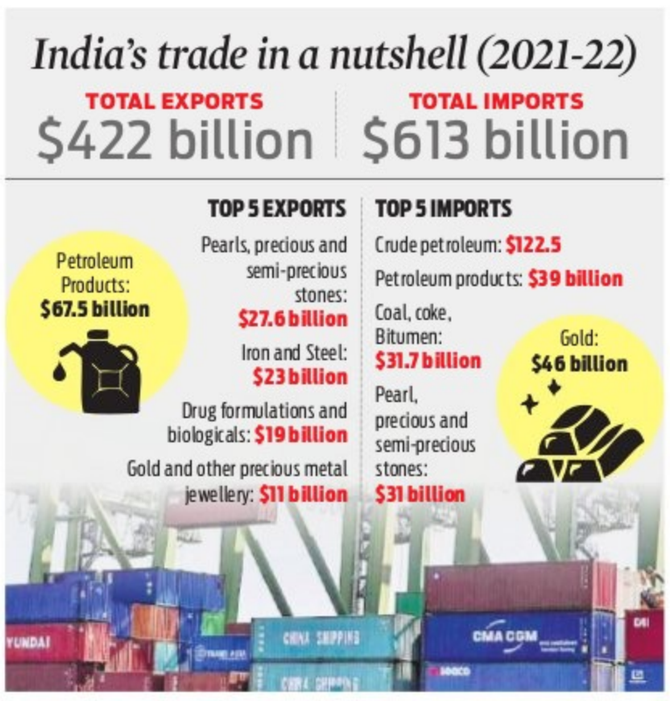
It recently entered into bilateral free trade agreements (FTAs) with the United Arab Emirates (UAE) and Australia. In addition, it is in talks with other countries and regions like the UK, Russia, Israel, Canada, Southern African Customs Union etc for the trade deals. "Countries are looking forward to a system where they can expand their market presence. The conventional markets are slowing down. There has been a slowdown in the US and Europe. So, there is a need to diversify and go to as many economies as one can," former commerce secretary Rajeev Kher told this newspaper.

Besides this, competitor countries have signed different multilateral trade agreements such as Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) among other bilateral agreements between the US, China, Europe and several other countries.

"When competitor countries have bilateral pacts then naturally the advantage goes to them. So, whenever market demand arises, the market with bilateral pact will be preferred over others due to less duties," Kher added. "In order to avoid exclusion from this preferential trade, more countries are getting into FTAs," he further said. Lekha S Chakraborty, Professor at National Institute of Public Finance and Policy (NIPFP), feels there is inconsistency between India's overall macro trade policies and FTA. However, she welcomes India's readiness to engage in FTAs, especially after its abstinence from RCEP.

"Rise in tariff barriers can affect imports negatively. The commitment of the prime minister in several world forums about no retreat from globalisation is reinforced in this readiness to engage in FTA. India's preparedness to provide significant market access through FTA is a welcome move," she says.

As per experts, India needs to enter into bilateral FTAs to ensure preferential market access and economic integration with selected countries. These FTAs help in diversification of export markets. India has no trade pact with the US, India's largest trade partner.



Bilateral over multilateral trade pacts

According to her, in the changed scenario post-Covid where the major trade forums like the World Trade Organisation (WTO) are undergoing a transition in trade strategies, we can't undermine the significance of bilateral trade agreements. India refrained from regional trade forums like RCEP as it continues to see such regional trade blocs an impediment to India's major industrial aspirations. When the protectionist wave grips the global markets, bilateral trade pacts are preferred to regional ones.

"India is cautiously optimistic about the forthcoming India-US bilateral FTA in November. India is a slow-negotiator. I can't say anything about India-US trade deals till that negotiations happen," says Chakraborty.

An RBI analysis looked into the determinants of exports and imports for the period 1995 to 2020 incorporating the FTAs and reveals the sub-optimal benefits of FTAs. This RBI analysis showed the trade pacts have not had any significant impact on India's exports, though have helped imports.

As per Dr Charan Singh, chief executive officer (CEO) of EGROW Foundation and former non-executive chairman of Punjab &Sind Bank, given the trend of deglobalisation, which is currently on way across the world, with every country focused on their domestic performance, providing employments to their local population and youth, it becomes important for bilateral trade pacts to be considered.

"In view of the changing pattern of global trade as well as the developing geopolitics to ensure uninterrupted supply of goods and services, countries will need to consider bilateral agreements. Further, given the constraints of geopolitics and sanctions, used as a tool as well as the weapon by some countries on others, bilateral trade pacts help ensure supply of essentials in any country," Sindh said. He further added that the trading blocs have ensured that they are able to provide resources as well as vital markets to participants. In contrast, bilateral trade agreements help in providing markets for both input and output to the participating countries.

TRADE PACTS

Russian connection, poor R&D drag down arms industry

THERE is a marked urgency in government to boost India's defence production, and arms exports have become key to driving those targets. About a week ago, speaking at the 12thDefense Expo in Gandhinagar, Union Defence Minister Rajnath Singh said the government had set a target of $22 billion for defence production by 2025; and since domestic demand may not provide economies of scale, a target of $5 billion in exports would provide the push.

About a month ago, Singh had pegged the same target for defence production at ₹1.75 lakh crore for domestic requirements and ₹35,000 crore for export markets. Quoting a Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI) report of 2021, he said world's military spending had crossed $2 trillion for the first time, and it was time India cashed in on the rising demand for arms world over.

Indigenisation has been a recurrent theme as part of the government's atmanir bhart or 'self-reliance' campaign. In August 2020, the ministry took off 101 arms-related items from the 'import list' and reserved for domestic production. The 'positive indigenisation list' has now been expanded to 411 items. The earlier policy relied entirely on 16 Defence Public Sector Undertakings (DPSU) and 41 government-owned ordnance factories. This has changed to welcoming private sector participation and allowing up to 74% foreign direct investment (FDI). A June 26 PIB circular says "333 private firms have been issued a 539 industrial licences. Out of these, 110 firms have reported commencement of production."

Inaugurating the Defence Expo at Gandhinagar, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said arms exports had increased eight-fold in last five years to about ₹13,000 crore, mostly contributed by private sector. This included the sale of BrahMos cruise missiles to the Philippines worth ₹2,770 crore.

Dependence on imports

This self-congratulation however disguises India's high dependence on imports. India has just replaced Saudi Arabia as the world's largest arms importer, and each of these two countries account for 11% respectively of the global arms imports. Where exports are concerned, SIPRI says during 2017-21, India was at 23rd spot out of 25 of the largest arms exporters, accounting for a mere 0.2% share of world's arms exports.

The urgency to diversify and indigenise production comes from the need to reduce India's reliance on Russian defence systems, which the Ukraine war is proving to be of poor quality. Russia's share in India's arms imports fell from 67% in 2012-17 to 46% in 2017-21, but this has not reduced its dependence on Russian supplies.

NEWSCOPE
GURBIR SINGH

From heavy lifting Ilyushin aircraft to MiG supersonic fighters to submarines, Indian armed forces mainly run on Russian gear. This Russian connection can't be cut in a jiffy as deployment and training takes years to absorb. Moreover, India has committed to future imports like Russian submarines and expensive surface-to-air (SAM) S-400 Triumf system, procured in the teeth of US opposition.

SOURAV ROY

Leaning on Russia for oil and weapons has put India in a difficult position on the world stage vis-a-vis Ukraine war. India is now worried it may land on the losing side. As the Ukraine war grinds on, the world is seeing the superior gear used by committed Ukrainian forces turn the tide of the war against Russia. The US light, shoulder-fired 'Javelins' has destroyed hundreds of Russian tanks; and Russian artillery can't match the US Himars – the M142 High Mobility Artillery Rocket System –which fires guided missiles to pinpointed targets like ammunition dumps and strategic bridges. In precision and speed, Western technology seems strides ahead.

Lack of R&D

Besides BrahMos missile, other Indian defence gear that has evinced interest abroad include 'Akash' air defence platform as well as advanced light helicopters, offshore Patrol boats, and coastal surveillance systems. Better sales and marketing will enhance exports, but it is lack of new technology and precision research that is our Achilles Heel.

The Defense Research and Development Organization (DRDO) has a network of 52 laboratories, manned by 5,000 military scientists and engineers, and a support staff of about 25,000. And, despite DRDO's galloping budget of over ₹20,000 crore, up from ₹13,000 crore in FY17, there is little to show. The 16 defence PSUs collectively show export revenue of ₹1,300 crore last fiscal. Defence commentator Ajai Shukla says the problem is: "India allocates by far the highest percentage of its defence budget on personnel costs, with a hefty 59% going on salaries and pensions." China and the UK spend 41% and 42%, respectively, of their defence budgets on modernisation, India spares no more than 25% on equipment modernisation.

Military hardware and defence systems need constant upgrades and focused investment year after year. Former army chief General (Retd) V P Malik, speaking at a conclave in Chandigarh in 2019, said:"the armed forces are always blamed for supporting imports, but they have no other alternative."

IOC reports first-ever back-to-back quarterly loss

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

STATE-OWNED Indian Oil Corporation (IOC) on Saturday reported a net loss of ₹272.35 crore for the second quarter of financial year 2022-23 (Q2FY23) despite booking over ₹10,800 crore of LPG subsidy it received from the government after the quarter ended.

The company reported a net profit of ₹6,360.05 crore for Q2FY22, according to a company's filing with the stock exchanges.

The decline comes on the back of a ₹1,992.53 crore loss incurred in the previous April-June quarter. This is the first time that IOC has booked losses in two straight quarters - all because it sold petrol, diesel and cooking gas (LPG) at rates below cost.

The loss in Q2FY23 was despite accounting for ₹10,801 crore of one-time grant that the government had announced on October 12. The government on October 12 extended a one-time grant of ₹22,000 crore to three state-owned fuel retailers to cover the losses they incurred on selling domestic cooking gas LPG below cost in two years starting June 2020.

An official explained that though the subsidy was provided by the government after the quarter had ended but it was for the period up to September 2022 and so it was considered following the principle of 'accrual-based' accounting.

Social media cos will have to abide by local laws: Minister

RAKESH KUMAR @New Delhi

A day after notifying the amended IT (Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code) Amendment Rules, 2022, the government on Saturday said it (the IT Rules) is not about regulating social media intermediaries, but they must work with the government to achieve common objectives of safety and trust.

Information technology (IT) minister Rajeev Chandrasekhar addressing the press said the government wants to work with intermediaries for a safe internet as over 120 crore people deserve an open, safe and accountable internet. Therefore, the minister urged social media companies not to violate any rules.

"We believe the intermediaries must not or can't violate Article 14, 19 and 21... the day they violate the rules, they no longer are intermediary," said Chandrasekhar.

The government on Friday (October 28, 2022) notified new IT Rules, in which, a government appointed Grievance Appellate Committee (GAC) will look into complaints of contentious content.

Upon getting complaints about content from users, they will probe if the content fulfils the criteria of amended IT Rules 2021. Later, they can direct the intermediaries to remove the contents.

FOR ROARING SINGH, SWING IS KING

Punjab Kings' bowling coach, Wright, isn't surprised about Arshdeep's development, says he is a similar bowler to Kiwi Boult

GOMESH S @Chennai

WHEN Damien Wright first got a glimpse of Arshdeep Singh, it was during the 2018 U-19 World Cup in New Zealand. The former Tasmanian cricketer was the Bangladesh head coach when he saw the left-arm seamer go about his business. Although the Indian got to play only two matches, he knew that Arshdeep was one to keep an eye on.

Four years on, Arshdeep was the first to move up the ladder and make it to the Indian team from the title-winning U-19 side that featured the likes of Ishan Porel, Shivam Mavi and Kamlesh Nagarkoti. In fact, he has gotten off to a dream start at the T20 World Cup, taking a wicket (Babar Azam) of the first ball he bowled in the tournament.

In IPL 2022, Arshdeep had the second-best economy in death among pacers who played more than two matches

As someone who loves to watch fast bowling, there is no better place to watch than Perth. I think Arshdeep will absolutely love it. I hope he doesn't get too excited and bowl back of length. Good length is good length, but he can get so much reward for the fullish length with the swing he can generate.

Wright isn't one bit surprised. "At that time, I didn't know him, but I saw him bowl and right away, I knew he was one to watch. I knew that he was going to be really good but it was on him to see how he goes about it," Wright told this daily from Hobart.

While just like the other pacers from that side, Arshdeep, too, got an IPL gig the very next year — with Punjab Kings — he took a couple of years to make his mark in the marquee T20 tournament. And he had a reunion of sorts when Wright took over as bowling coach of the franchise in 2021. The Australian felt he is a larger than life character who had a real presence in the dressing room even at an young age. It was what made Wright gravitate towards him.

As someone who has worked with New Zealand as bowling coach in the early 2010s, Wright sees a lot of a younger version of Trent Boult in Arshdeep. He believes that both left-armers have a very similar work ethic. In fact, Wright used his experience of working with Boult when he worked with Arshdeep in the IPL. "(They are) very determined young men at the respective stages of their career. Really willing to learn and get better, beautiful ability to swing the cricket ball at a reasonable pace. You don't have to say too many things. You just have to guide them and they take it up pretty quickly," he says.

Although Punjab Kings might not have lived up to their potential in the last couple of seasons, the biggest positive from their campaign was the rise of Arshdeep. So much so that the 23-year-old was the only player the franchise retained apart from Mayank Agarwal ahead of the mega auction in 2021. He was reliable. He knew his role upfront, to swing the ball both ways and take wickets with the new ball.

But more importantly, it was his death bowling that stood out in the last edition of the IPL. In a season where pacers went for 10.88 runs per over in the death on an average, Arshdeep gave away just 7.58 RPO. To put that number into some context, among pacers who played more than two games, only Jasprit Bumrah had a better economy in the death overs (7.38).

It was what he wanted to achieve. He knew he could swing the new ball. It was death bowling that Arshdeep had his eyes on. He made sure he did the extras drills. He was driven to be perfect. There were times where the team bus had to wait for the left-arm pacer to complete his sessions even after everyone left.

"He really worked on making sure he was the best death bowler in the competition. That is what he wanted to be," Wright says. "He was always keen to target death bowling. Come over the wicket, round the wicket and he would hit all the targets before he left. He was challenging himself to swing the ball both ways. He is getting the rewards now because of all the hard work he put in."

As India take on South Africa in Perth — arguably one of the fastest surfaces in the world — all eyes will be on the left-arm pacer and how he could utlise the conditions against a strong left-handed unit. Wright is thrilled. He can't wait to see how the contest goes.

"As someone who loves to watch fast bowling, there is no better place to watch than Perth. I think he will absolutely love it. I hope he doesn't get too excited and bowl back of length. Good length is good length, but he can get so much reward for the fullish length with the swing he can generate. I think he'll have a great night," he says.

Scores of Indian fans will be hoping the same.

The big one

India can take a big foot forwards towards qualifying to the knock-out stages of the World Cup. A look at their group stage clash against South Africa...

INDIAN SPINNERS VS LEFT-HANDER HEAVY SA

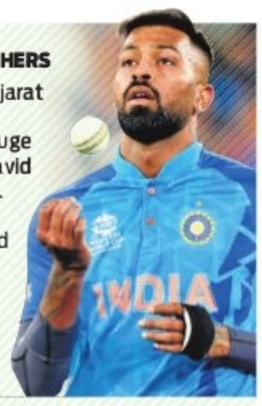
One of those contests within the contest. The Proteas, especially Rille Rossouw, punished Bangladesh's spinners. How will the likes of Axar Patel and R Ashwin tackle this challenge?

NORTJE VS INDIA TOP-ORDER

On an especially fast-track, how will the likes of Virat Kohli and Suryakumar Yadav match up to Anrich Nortje, one of the quickest in the world? If Nortje goes wicket-less, you would tend to think that's a big plus for India's chances.

BATTLE OF FINISHERS

As captain of Gujarat Titans, Hardik Pandya was a huge beneficiary of David Miller's finishing. On Sunday, how they play the end overs for the respective sides could have a huge bearing on the final result.



ARSHDEEP'S SEAM MOVEMENT

The left-armer was unplayable on a greenish wicket against the same opponents in Thiruvananthapuram last month. He scythed through the line-up with his seam and swing. India could frontload him if there's similar movement on offer.

POSSIBLE COMBINATION

Will India give Deepak Hooda a go as his off-spin adds value against a left-handed heavy South Africa? Will KL Rahul keep his place? Will Rishabh Pant be considered to upset SA's bowling strategy?

Phillips smashing machine for NZ

AGENCIES @Sydney

GLENN Phillips hit the second century of the Twenty20 World Cup to put New Zealand on course for a semifinal place with a comprehensive 65-run win over Sri Lanka at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Saturday. The Kiwis now have five points, having won two games and shared the points with Afghanistan following a rain-affected Group 1 match at the Super 12 stage. England, Ireland and Australia are tied on three points but New Zealand has a vastly superior net run-rate.

After being reduced to 15-3, an 84-run stand between Phillips and Daryl Mitchell (22) helped NZ total 167-7. Phillips finished things off in style, making good use of short square boundaries, as his team scored 65 runs in the last five overs. Sri Lanka was never in the hunt after slumping to 8/4 in fourth over. Brief scores: New Zealand 167/7 in 20 ovs (Phillips 104; Rajitha 2/23) bt Sri Lanka 102 all out in 19.2 ovs (Shanaka 35, Boult 4/13).

Was addicted to cocaine after retirement: Akram

AGENCIES @London

PAKISTAN pace great Wasim Akram has revealed he developed a cocaine addiction after his retirement from the game but quit following the death of his first wife in 2009. The 56-year-old has opened up about his dependency on cocaine in his upcoming autobiography 'Sultan: A Memoir.'

Pakistan's leading wicket-taker in both Test and ODI cricket said he started to crave "a substitute for the adrenaline rush of competition" when he was travelling away from his first wife Huma. "The culture of fame in south Asia is all consuming, seductive and corrupting. You can go to 10 parties a night, and some do. And it took its toll on me," Akram told the Times. "It made me volatile. It made me deceptive. Huma, I know, was often lonely in this time... she would talk of her desire to move to Karachi, to be nearer her parents and siblings. "I was reluctant. Why? Partly because I liked going to Karachi on my own, pretending it was work when it was actually about partying, often for days at a time."

"Huma eventually found me out, discovering a packet of cocaine in my wallet... 'You need help.' I agreed. It was getting out of hand. I couldn't control it. One line would become two, two would become four; four would become a gram, a gram would become two. I could not sleep. I could not eat. Like a lot of addicts, part of me welcomed discovery: the secrecy had been exhausting."

Akram went for rehab but his experience with the doctor was all but pleasant, resulting in a relapse.

Satwik and Chirag edge closer to glory in France

AGENCIES @Paris

IT has been a memorable year for India doubles specialists Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty. They started the season on a perfect note, winning the India Open crown. Then they played a pivotal role during India's historic run during the Thomas Cup. Another historic show followed during the Commonwealth Games, where they clinched the top prize. Now, they are one step away from another big hit. The Indian duo marched into the final of the French Open with an emphatic win over Korean pair of Choi Sol Gyu and Kim Won Ho on Saturday.

The duo were at their attacking best, posting a 21-18, 21-14 victory in the semifinals that lasted 45 minutes.

Up against opponents whom they have never played before, Chirag was relentless at the front court while Satwik unleashed his booming smashes from the back. The Indians came up with an all-out attack and were up 2-0 early on and despite the Koreans managing to claw back at 7-7, Satwik and Chirag ensured they were four points ahead at the mid game interval. After the break, the Koreans briefly tried to dictate the pace of the rallies with their returns getting steeper. Soon they were 16-13 up, but an alert Chirag produced a precise return to keep moving ahead.

Sankar, who had won a marathon quarterfinal against China Hu Zhe An, showed no signs of any fatigue as he controlled the rallies brilliantly.

City go top, Brighton hammer Blues

AFP @Leicester

MANCHESTER City moved to the top of the Premier League thanks to Kevin De Bruyne's stunning strike in a 1-0 win over Leicester, as Chelsea boss Graham Potter suffered a nightmare return to Brighton with a 4-1 defeat on Saturday.

Tottenham fought back from 2-0 down to beat Bournemouth 3-2 to remain in third ahead of Newcastle, who thrashed Aston Villa 4-0. City were without the free-scoring Erling Haaland for the trip to the King Power due to a foot injury and were blunted up front without the firepower of the Norwegian.

But one moment of magic from De Bruyne was enough for the winner as the Belgian's free-kick four minutes into the second half clipped the inside of the post on its way past Danny Ward. City needed one brilliant save from Ederson to prevent another sensational strike from an Belgian international as he turned Youri Tielemans' volley onto the crossbar.

With Arsenal not in action until Sunday when they host Nottingham Forest, victory lifts City one point ahead of the Gunners at the top of the table.

Meanwhile, Potter had been unbeaten in his first nine games since leaving Brighton to take over at Chelsea last month. By contrast, the Seagulls had not won in their first five games under new boss Roberto De Zerbi, but that all changed in a dominant first half by Brighton. Thiago Silva twice cleared off the Chelsea goal line in the first five minutes before Leandro Trossard fired home the opener. Both Ruben Loftus-Cheek and Trevoh Chalobah deflected crosses into their own goal.

Kai Havertz's header early in the second half pulled a goal back, but Pascal Gross rounded off a memorable win for Brighton late on.

Results: Bournemouth 2-3 Tottenham; Brentford 1-1 Wolves; Brighton 4-1 Chelsea; Crystal Palace 1-0 Southampton; Leicester 0-1 Manchester City; Newcastle 4-0 Aston Villa.

AKANKSHA'S TALE

Yogasana to record-breaking spree on weightlifting platform

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

WEIGHTLIFTER Akanksha Vyavahare has been on a record-breaking spree since the Youth National Championships held in Bhubaneswar, Odisha in March this year. She set six youth national records winning the 40kg gold with a total lift of 127kg (58kg in snatch and 69kg in clean & jerk) at the event.

The Maharashtra lifter then rewrote her snatch record by lifting 59kg in Leon, Mexico in June during the IWF Youth World Championships to clinch silver. Next month, she bettered her clean & jerk record in Tashkent, Uzbekistan during Asian Youth Championships. She lifted 70kg in C&J (55kg snatch) to finish with bronze.

All the records she set in the last seven months were broken again on Friday as the 15-year-old lifter finished on top of the podium at the 2nd Khelo India National Ranking Women's Weightlifting Tournament in Ghaziabad, Noida. Akanksha bettered her existing snatch record, by lifting 60kg. She then set a record in the clean & jerk section by lifting 71kg, and in the process, registered a total lift of 131kg, also a youth national record.

To begin with, Akanksha practised yogasana for two years before switching to weightlifting at the age of 11 at her uncle's insistence. "She was doing good at district level but was missing out on top-three finishes by small margins at state level. In yogasana, a margin of 0.5 or 1 point can cost you a podium finish. This made us change the sport," Pravin Vyavahare, Akanksha's uncle and coach, told this daily.

Pravin himself had competed in the inter-university weightlifting championships before joining a school in Manmad, Nashik. He also opened a centre in the town where children are given weightlifting training free of cost. "Despite pursuing yogasana, Akanksha and her elder sister Diya were regular at my centre as well. Yogasana only helped them. It not only made them focussed but also improved their flexibility, which can work wonders in lifting," added the coach.

Given her show in Youth Nationals, Akanksha was included in the development group of the Target Olympic Podium Scheme (TOPS) earlier this year. It also meant she got an opportunity to train at the SAI National Centre of Excellence in Aurangabad.

"She is only 15 so it's premature to talk about the Olympics but yes we can target the 2026 Commonwealth Games. She will start competing in the junior category next year. Her biggest strength is her sincerity and I hope she only improves from hereon," signed off the coach.

Akanksha is set to compete at the Youth National Championships scheduled in December this year and the teenager is expected to rewrite a few more records at the event before switching to the junior category next year.

Evidence of Revolutionary War prison camp location discovered

Researchers say they solved a decades-old riddle this week by finding remnants of the stockade at the prison camp in York, Pennsylvania that housed British soldiers for nearly two years during the American Revolutionary War

WHERE IS THE CAMP SECURITY?

The location of Camp Security was thought to have been on land acquired by the local government nearly a decade ago. An archaeological team working there located what they believe to be the prison camp's exterior security fence

1781 Battle

Fieldwork at the site has gone on for decades, but the exact spot of Camp Security where prisoners from the 1781 Battle of Yorktown, Virginia, were kept had been unknown until a telltale pattern of post holes in a foot-deep trench was uncovered

28 acres were plowed

NARROWING THE LOCATION SITE

Lead archaeologist John Crawmer said the location site had been narrowed down after about 28 acres were plowed for metal detection and surface collection of artifacts in 2020. That further reduced the search area to about 8 acres, where exploratory trenches were dug in 2021

HELPFUL TRENCHES

Those trenches helped the team identify post holes that in turn led to the pattern of holes and a stockade trench that matched stockades at other 18th-century military sites, Crawmer said

Next spring, Crawmer and other researchers hope to determine the full size of the stockade and perform a focused search for artifacts within and around it

WHO WERE HOUSED IN THE CAMP?

The camp housed more than 1,000 English, Scottish and Canadian privates and noncommissioned officers for 22 months during war, starting with a group of prisoners who arrived in 1781, four years after their surrender at Saratoga, New York. By the next year, there were some 1,200 men at the camp, along with hundreds of women and children

CAMP FEVER

A contemporaneous account of camp life by a British surgeon's mate said there was a 'camp fever' that might have killed some of the prisoners, and a list of Camp Security inmates was located in the British National Archives. No human remains have been found at the site

THE FINDINGS

Historians confirmed local lore about the general location of Camp Security and Camp Indulgence after a 1979 archaeological study of a small portion of the property produced buckles, buttons and other items associated with British soldiers of the period. That survey also found 20 coins and 605 straight pins that may have been used by prisoners to make lace

HEAT WAVES COST POOR COUNTRIES THE MOST, SAYS STUDY

The research published in the journal Science Advances says that periods of extreme heat cost the global economy about $16 trillion between 1992 and 2013

CLIMATE

WASHINGTON: Heat waves, intensified by climate change, have cost the global economy trillions of dollars in the last 30 years, a study found, with poor countries paying the steepest price.

And those lopsided economic effects contribute to widening inequalities around the world, according to the research.

"The cost of extreme heat from climate change so far has been disproportionately borne by the countries and regions least culpable for global warming," Dartmouth College professor Justin Mankin, one of the authors of the study published in the journal Science Advances, said. "And that's an insane tragedy."

"Climate change is playing out on a landscape of economic inequality, and it is acting to amplify that inequality," he said.

Periods of extreme heat cost the global economy about $16 trillion dollars between 1992 and 2013, the study calculated. But while the richest countries have lost about 1.5% of their annual per capita GDPs dealing with heat waves, poorer countries have lost about 6.7% of their annual per capita GDPs.

Several factors

The costs of heat waves come from many factors: effects on agriculture, strains on health systems, less productive workforces and physical damage to infrastructure

The reason for that disparity is simple: poor countries are often situated closer to the tropics, where temperatures are warmer anyway. During heat waves, they become even hotter. The study comes just days ahead of the start of the COP27 climate summit in Egypt, where the question of compensation for countries which are disproportionately vulnerable to but least responsible for climate change is expected to be one of the key topics.

Study researchers examined five days of weather considered extreme for a specific region each year.

"The general idea is to use variation in extreme heat, which is effectively randomly assigned to all these economic regions, and see the extent to which that accounts for variation in economic growth" in a given region, Mankin explained.

"Then the second part is to say, ok, how has human-caused warming influenced extreme heat?" he added.

Despite these calculations, the study results almost certainly underestimate the true cost of extreme heat, according to the paper—only studying five days per year does not reflect the increased frequency of such heat events, and not all potential costs were included.

Previous studies on the subject had focused on the costs of heat to specific sectors, though scientists say it is important to look at the price tag of climate change wholistically.

As per Mankin, the most important response is to reduce carbon emissions to slow down global warming at the source.
